DEVLIN BANK IS CLOSED AT TOPEKA, KAN.

Financial Concern in Which Sunflower State Millionaire Is Largest Stockholder Unexpectedly Shuts Its Doors.

MAIN OWNER ABOUT TO TRANSFER HIS PROPERTY

Kansas City Corporation Already Organized to Take Over Interests of Man Back of Embarrassed Institution.

TOPEKA, Kan., July 3.—The First National Bank of Topeka, in which C. J. Devlin, reputed to be the richest man in Kansas, is the principal stockholder, has been closed, and National Bank Examiner J. T. Bradley has been named by the Comptroller of the Currency to act as receiver.

The bank's failure to open this morning was [illegible] public's first notice of its embarrassment. On the door appeared the following notice:

"This bank is closed by my orders. The Comptroller of the Currency has been communicated with and will send an examiner, who will make a statement. W. H. ROSSINGTON, "Vice-President."

The news that the First National Bank had been closed precipitated a slight run on the Central National, in which Mr. Devlin is also a large stockholder.

Cash to the amount of $300,000 was deposited with the institution to meet all claims. Its officials added $300,000 worth of unencumbered Topeka real estate and $400,000 worth of Southern Kansas coal lands had been turned in by Mr. Devlin, together with $700,000 in life insurance.

The First National's deposits, according to a recent statement, amounted to $1,390,000. The State of Kansas alone is its creditor to the amount of $500,000, the city of Topeka $39,000 and Shawnee County about $30,000.

Devlin Worth $7,000,000.

Mr. Devlin is the head of 26 different companies. Last Friday it was announced that failing health would compel him to relinquish the active management of most of his interests and a corporation known as the Devlin Mining, Mercantile and Manufacturing Co. was organized in Kansas City to take over his properties estimated to be worth in the aggregate $7,000,000.

The actual transfer has not been made, however, and officials of the Central National Bank now say that nothing further will be done in this direction until after a report has been made by the Comptroller of the Currency on the First National's condition.

Landrum B. Ridge, Kansas City, 9995 shares; J. W. Gleed, attorney for the Central National Bank of Topeka, one share; Charles A. Loomis of the City National Bank of Kansas City, one share; Clifford Histed, Kansas City, attorney for Mr. and Mrs. Devlin, one share; C. J. Lantry, Strong City, Kan., a director of the First National Bank of Topeka, one share.

As soon as the corporation papers were drawn a special train was hired and the documents were hurried to Jefferson City, where they were hastily filed with the Secretary of State.

Big Fund Raised.

Yesterday a conference of Chicago, Kansas City and Topeka bankers interested in Mr. Devlin's affairs was held at Kansas City. The conference lasted several hours and at its close, late last night, it was announced that the question of raising a large sum of money needed by the holding company to keep the Devlin properties going was discussed.

The following named banks were represented at the conference: The Corn Exchange Bank of Chicago, the Continental National Bank of Chicago, the Central Trust Co. of Chicago, the American National Bank of Kansas City, the City National Bank of Kansas City, the Central National Bank of Topeka and the First National Bank of Topeka.

Mr. Devlin's wealth is largely in coal mining properties in Southern Kansas, in the vicinity of Marceline, Mo., and in Illinois. These properties include the following:

Mount Carmel coal mines, Toluca coal mines, the Marquette third vein mines, the Devlin Coal Co., the Devlin-Miller Coal Co., the Crawford County Mining Co., the Pittsburg & Midway Coal Co., the Kansas City Coal & Coke Co., the Southwestern Fuel Co., the Wiley Coal Co., and the Marceline Coal Co.

Mr. Devlin also owns a number of large coal yards in Kansas City. He is a stockholder in 25 banks, his bank stock, it is estimated, amounting probably to $1,000,000.

Debts Declared Small.

Charles S. Gleed of Topeka, general manager of the Missouri Telephone Co., and for many years a business associate of Mr. Devlin, says: "Mr. Devlin's assets amount to about $7,000,000. These liabilities are the debts of the different companies he controls. His personal liabilities are practically nothing. His largest personal liability probably is the premium on his life insurance policies, which must amount to $150,000 a year, as he carried about $1,500,000 in life insurance.

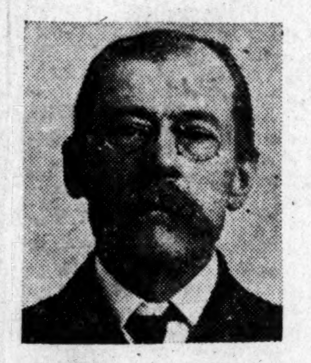
"Up to the time of Mr. Devlin's illness the bank had loaned his companions about $500,000. When he fell ill drafts came in from these companies and were paid by the bank, so that the indebtedness ran up to about $1,000,000. This crippled the bank."

"There has been no speculation," said Vice-President Rossington. "The trouble was brought on by loaning too much to one borrower."

Mr. Devlin was born at St. Louis 54 years ago. He was in the coal business in Southern Illinois for a short time and at different times had the management of the coal properties of the Atchison, Santa Fe and the Great

FAMILY BELIEVES BOOKMAN WAS HURT AND WANDERED OFF

Mrs. Bookman Appeals to Her Missing Husband to Come Home



GEORGE A. BOOKMAN.

My Dear Husband.

If this meets your eye, please read it and come back to your wife and children who love you so dearly. We suffer every moment you are away. If you are injured or ill let us know and we will come to you. Lovingly,

MALINDA BOOKMAN.

Relatives of Cabanne Man, Treasurer of Carpenters' Union, Think That His Mind Became Affected—Abandon Theory of Murder.

The wife and son of George A. Bookman, the Cabanne resident who has been missing from his home at 5576 Vernon avenue since Thursday night, have abandoned the theory that he was killed by an unidentified assailant, as they at first believed.

They now believe that in some way he was injured or that his mind became affected and that he has wandered away. In a consultation with Assistant Chief of Detectives Keely Sunday, Forrest Bookman decided to have the Police Department issue circulars containing a picture of the missing man, together with an accurate description.

The above appeal is sent by the wife, hoping he may see it.

The family received a letter from William Cook of 1712 Locust street, Sunday. Mr. Cook stated that he had seen, at noon Friday at Park and Belt avenues, a man he believed to be Bookman. Forrest Bookman called on Mr. Cook and while the description he gave of the man he had seen corresponded in a measure he was not satisfied that it was his father.

Bookman was treasurer for the local carpenters' union, and the police made report that there was a discrepancy in the accounts. All of the books have not been recovered yet and the exact status of the accounts have not been determined.

KNABENSHUE GOES A-VISITING IN HIS TOLEDO AIRSHIP

Young Aeronaut Sails 600 Feet Over Fair Grounds to Wonder of Thousands, When Gasoline Motor Gives Way and He Descends in Tree, but Extricates Bird.

TOLEDO AIRSHIP'S BAG IS FISH SHAPED—PADDLE AND RUDDER

Characteristics of the Toledo No. 1, Knabenshue airship, which he constructed in Toledo last spring.

Bag fish-shape, with paddle in front and rudder in rear.
Lifting capacity—About 450 pounds; capacity of bag, 7000 cubic feet.
Framework—Thirty-eight feet long by three feet high and wide.
Engine—Ten-horsepower capacity, composed of four cylinders.
Greatest number of revolutions of propeller per minute, 360.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

TOLEDO, O., July 3.—A. Roy Knabenshue, the daring young aeronaut who startled St. Louis and the world by his maneuvers in Baldwin's airship, the "California Arrow," is making rapid strides here toward perfecting the airship and solving the question of aerial navigation.

Yesterday afternoon Knabenshue guided his new ship, the "Toledo No. 1," at will over the Fair Grounds.

He would have been successful in returning to his starting point in the center of the big field had it not been for the giving way of the carburator in his gasoline motor after 15 minutes of successful steering hither and thither in the air.

The young aeronaut last Friday surprised this city with a trip in the "Toledo No. 1" when they were least expecting a flight. Friday's ascent was perhaps the most startling and successful Knabenshue has ever made.

Knabenshue started from the Fair Grounds in his ship and made straight for the 10-story Spitzer building at Madison and Huron streets, a distance of three miles from the Fair Grounds. There he landed, on a roof only about 40 feet square, and met his wife and two or three friends who were waiting his arrival.

Soon the ship was seen to rise from the roof and back the young "King of the Air" sped to his starting point in the Fair Grounds. Yesterday afternoon between eight and ten thousand citizens journeyed out to the Fair Grounds to witness the flight, those who stayed at home keeping a lookout from their housetops or windows.

Starts Up Like Arrow

At 3:25 p. m. Knabenshue called to the assistants beneath him to let her go and the "Toledo No. 1" started up like an arrow, the guiding hand steering his ship toward the east.

First Knabenshue made a complete circle of the entire Fair Grounds at a height of about 300 feet and then pointed the bow upward.

At a level of about 600 feet above the crowd, where the wind was evidently very strong, the ship was moved back and forth over the Fair Grounds, but the strong current of wind seemed to prevent a complete circle in any small area.

For fifteen minutes all went well and the crowd gazed in wonder, when suddenly the noise of the motor stopped and the ship began to sink just beyond the western limits of the Fair Grounds. Once the motor was revived and the ship shot upward, but only for a short distance.

The throng held its breath as they saw the craft sink rapidly toward a clump of trees just [illegible] of the Fair Grounds [illegible] the aeronaut would be injured if the framework of his machine was caught in the trees, and a few seconds later it did land in one of the tallest of the group.

Knabenshue, thinking that the lifting power of his gas bag would enable him to escape if he could only free himself from the first tree, tugged away at the branches and finally succeeded in freeing his ship.

But the gas bag refused to do its part and again he was lowered into a tree, 15 feet from the one in which he first landed.

The crowd poured from the grounds and assembled beneath the tree, watching to see how Knabenshue was going to extricate his ship from the tree and reach the ground without injury to his craft or himself.

Tilting the "Toledo" first to one side and then the other, the aeronaut was able to lower his ship to the ground without coming in contact with anything that would do it damage.

Crowd Carries the Ship.

The crowd [illegible]ed the ship, with Knabenshue sitting on the framework, into the Fair Grounds, tearing off boards from the fence to pass through to the point within the grounds from which the start was made.

Knabenshue said, as he was being borne through the grounds that the motor had given out exactly as the motor of the "Arrow" did on the day of his first flight in St. Louis during the World's Fair. On that occasion he drifted over St. Louis and the Mississippi River into Illinois.

He said that owing to the time of day he would not attempt another flight, as it would take some time to repair the motor.

Speaking of his achievements in aerial navigation, Knabenshue said just before yesterday's flight: "It is my intention to make aeronautics my life work and study and I find that each trip into the air is an individual lesson in itself, for conditions are rarely ever the same, and I find new questions to be solved each time I go up.

"The chance for improvement in the airship within the next year or two is very great and in all probability the question of navigating the hitherto unknown will be solved before many years have passed. I have shown St. Louisans, Toledoites and Californians that my 'bird' can be guided with or against the wind, although I have never attempted to weather any great gale and do not know that my ship in its present stage of imperfection could accomplish much in a heavy wind. That obstacle will, however, be overcome as the experiments progress and the goal must undoubtedly be reached soon."

DEATH LIST IN MEXICAN FLOOD MAY REACH 1000

Mining City of Guanajuato, With Large American and British Population, Swept by Torrent—Awful Loss of Life.

SEVERAL VALLEY TOWNS COMPLETELY WIPED OUT

Terrific Downpour Fills Narrow Gorges and Rushing Water Carries Everything Before It—Train Wrecked.

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, July 3.—Scores, perhaps hundreds, of persons have perished in a flood which swept the mining city of Guanajuato and neighboring towns in the mountain valley through which the torrent rushed, carrying all before it.

President Robinson of the Mexican Central Railroad places the number of dead at 1000. Wires are all down, the Mexican Central track is washed out, wagon roads are impassable and it may be several days before definite news will be obtainable.

Guanajuato is the seat of activity of several large American and British mining companies and the Anglo-Saxon population both there and at other towns in the vicinity is considerable. The town of Marafilo, a short distance below Guanajuato, is reported to have been completely wiped out.

The storm is understood to have begun on the night of June 30 and to have increased in violence until it approached the proportions of a cloudburst.

By this time the streets of Guanajuato were raging torrents, with the water up to the second stories and many buildings crumbling under the force of the current. The thoroughfares, according to last reports sent out before the wires went down, were filled with floating bodies.

President Robinson of the Mexican Central has received word of the wrecking of a passenger train by a washout north of Irapuato, in which there was loss of life, though its extent is as yet uncertain.

Guanajuato, or Guanaxuato, as it was originally known, is a city of about 65,000 population, the capital of the State of the same name. Iit is singularly situated in a deep, narrow mountain defile, 6017 feet above sea level, 160 miles northwest of Mexico City.

The original city was founded by the Spaniards in 1545 about a group of gold and silver mines, which have since proven the richest in Mexico. A number of other villages grew up about it and the entire number was finally brought under a single head.

The mines were worked only with antiquated machinery and by far from scientific methods until a few years ago, when American and British capital became interested in them. Since then there have been large investments and a considerable foreign population has grown up in Guanajuato and neighboring towns.

The city is remarkable, among other things, for the location in its neighborhood of a maze of ancient Aztec catacombs, in which are thousands of mummies and prehistoric relics of various kinds, which have made it a frequent stopping place for antiquaries and tourists.

The houses of the main city are generally well built of hewn stone, and the residences, particularly those of foreign mine owners and superintendents, are among the finest in Mexico.

WESTERN UNION SENDS RACE "DOPE"

Eight Poolrooms in Hot Springs Pay $200 a Day for Telegrams.

Telegrams from Hot Springs, Ark., to the Post-Dispatch explain in retail the manner in which the Western Union Telegraph Co. is supplying eight poolrooms in that city with betting information received at the Delmar racetrack.

The system has been in operation for some time, and shows that the telegraph company acts directly with the poolrooms.

D. S. Ryan, local manager of the Western Union Telegraph Co. at Hot Springs, according to the Post-Dispatch correspondent, collects daily the sum of $25 from each poolroom for "racetrack dope" transmitted from St. Louis.

Of this amount the correspondent states $15 is retained by the Western Union company and $10 is sent to a turf bureau which transmits the tips and bets over the Western Union wires.

At this rate the Western Union gets a net profit out of the St. Louis racetrack gambling privilege of $120 per day, or about $3500 a month.

The poolrooms at Hot Springs are also taxed $25 a day by the Western Union company for betting information received from Kenilworth track and a similar sum for that received from Latonia and Sheepshead Bay.

For information received from the four racetracks now in operation throughout the country the Western Union collects daily from the poolrooms at Hot Springs, through its local manager, the aggregate sum of $800 or a fraction less than $2200 a month.

Supt. B. J. Frankel of the Western Union Telegraph Co., in an interview with a Post-Dispatch reporter a few days ago, insisted that his company made no direct levy on the poolrooms for betting information supplied to them, but merely charged for telegraphic messages.

The Hot Springs poolrooms each pay the Western Union the arbitrary price of $25 a day, regardless of the volume of matter contained in the messages.

WINDSTORM WRECKS HOUSE

Damage Done to Other Property and Crops Near Appleton City.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

APPLETON CITY, Mo., July 3.—The home of Josiah Dodge was wrecked by a windstorm which struck this city with great force last night. The occupants escaped without injury. Many other buildings were damaged and shade trees along the streets, for which Appleton is noted, were sadly torn and twisted.

Growing corn and recently harvested wheat have been damaged heavily in the surrounding country.

BUSINESS RIVALS USED REVOLVERS

Competition for Excursion Traffic Caused Trouble Between Steamboat Attaches.

The cause and effect of two revolver shots on the levee at 9:30 a. m. Sunday will be inquired into in City Hall Police Court next Monday. It was set for Monday, but was continued.

Statements of the interested parties are to the effect that intense rivalry for passengers on steamboat excursions was at the bottom of the trouble. Capt. Harry Brolaski of the Corwin H. Spencer is one of the persons to be tried, and John Block, a runner for the City of Providence, is the other. The name of Capt. William Thorwegan of the City of Providence is involved to a limited extent.

For some weeks the competition for steamboat excursion business has been bitter. Each side has employed solicitors, who did not hesitate to try to persuade groups of would-be excursionists to change from one boat to the other.

Capt. Brolaski says Block was a most active "runner," and had made threats against him. Sunday Brolaski approached Block and they quarreled. It is alleged that both drew revolvers and fired. Block says Brolaski fired first; Brolaski says Block fired first.

Reinforcements [illegible] to Brolaski, and Block fled up the levee hill. Policemen joined in the chase and caught him. At Chestnut Street Station he made charges against Brolaski, who made counter accusations, and both were held on charges of disturbing the peace. No weapon was found on either. Brolaski gave bond at once; Block gave bond in the afternoon.

TOY CANNON PEPPERS BOYS.

Two small boys leaving the City Dispensary with faces in bandages that concealed all but their eyes, reminded St. Louis people who saw them Monday that Tuesday is the Fourth. The boys had stood in front of a "toy" cannon.

Otto Stohler, aged 12, 101 South Third street, and Eddie Toole, aged 11, 415 South Sixth street, were the youthful victims. They said that other boys at the Laclede School playgrounds, Sixth and Poplar streets, had pushed them in front of the cannon, just before it was fired. A half hour's work was required at the Dispensary to pick the powder out of their faces.

FOUND DEAD, GAS ON.

An inquest was begun Monday into the death of Thomas F. Finnegan, a commission merchant, who was found Sunday asphyxiated in a room of his home, 4151 Labadie avenue.

When the discovery was made by Conrad Hupfeld, a neighbor who climbed in at the window, two gasjets were open wide, and the odor of gas was heavy throughout the house and in the vicinity.

HAD FIGHT IN WATER OFFICE

Supt. Maloney Suspended After Encounter With Employe, but Reinstated.

Owing to a personal encounter at the branch office of the City Water Department at Jefferson avenue and Walnut street a week ago, a report of strained relations between Engineer Archer Anderson, in charge of the office, and Supt. Con. Maloney was spread at the City Hall Monday.

It was said that Maloney was resentful of the fact that he was superseded in charge of the office by Anderson two months ago, when the department force was reorganized, and that he had provoked a fight with Anderson, as a result of which Maloney had been suspended. Anderson's promotion is said to have been due to the fact that it was decided that a professional engineer should be placed at the head of the office.

Engineer William E. Rolfe of the Water Department was seen at City Hall Monday by a Post-Dispatch reporter and said that the story was without foundation. Maloney had engaged in a fight with another employe, he said, and the two had been separated by Anderson. Maloney was then suspended, but an investigation established the fact that he was not to blame for the trouble and he was reinstated.

JULY 4, FAIR AND COOL

Weather Forecaster Sees Thunderstorms for Tonight.

Weather Prophet Bowie is doing the best he can to give St. Louis auspicious weather for the Fourth of July, knowing that this is a patriotic city intent upon celebrating the birthday of the Union to the fullest extent possible to American enthusiasm. But his powers have their limitations and here is the most encouraging bulletin he can give out in the way of an official forecast:

"Thunderstorms this afternoon or tonight. Cooler tonight. Tuesday fair and cooler. Fresh to variable southwest to northwest winds."

Not necessarily as a dampener on Independence Day enthusiasm, but as the result of natural conditions not affected by such petty influences as national anniversaries, general rain is reported throughout Missouri, Southern Illinois, the Ohio Valley and the Central West. Kansas City suffered from something very like a cloudburst, being visited by a rainfall of three inches, the heaviest reported Sunday anywhere in the United States. The rainfall in St. Louis during the storm of Sunday afternoon was 29-100 of an inch. The highest temperature reading for the day in St. Louis was 90, which was reached at 4 p. m. and held until 5.

MUTINEERS DEFY ALL THREATS OF THE ROUMANIANS

Russian Crew of Rebel Battleship Kniaz Potemkin Have No Fear of Attack by Flee of the Little Monarchy.

ST. PETERSBURG IS ON ANXIOUS SEAT

Capital Without News of Any Decisive Action—Rumor Has It That Czar Has Appealed to Powers for Aid.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatc New York World.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 3, 7 p. m.—According to the last reports r ceived here, the Kniaz Potemkin, charge of her mutinous crew, was st at Kustenji, the Roumanian seapo where the ship had put in for suppli and provisions. The Roumanian Go ernment has ordered the mutineers to surrender under penalty of being fire upon by the Roumanian gunboats. Th threat is not taken seriously here a it is not believed that the rebels wil pay any heed to the demands.

A persistent rumor here this after noon, but which cannot be confirmed is that the Czar has appealed to the va rious nations which keep warships at Constantinople to send their vessels to Odessa and assist in restoring order.

A dispatch from Cronstadt which has revived the gravest aprehension is that the crew of the Russian cruiser Minine has mutinied and refused to g to sea on account of the dilapidated condition of the vessel and her unseaworthiness. The dispatch, which is official, says that the ringleaders have been arrested.

The surrender of the Georgi Pobiedonosetz by her mutinous crew was formally carried out today, when the officers of the vessel returned on board and picked out the ringleaders, who were sent ashore following the arrival here of Rear Admiral Chouknin, commander of the Black Sea fleet.

KRUGER INTERNES HIS ENTIRE FLEET.

BY CORCORAN.

Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

ODESSA, Southern Russia, July 3.—That Admiral Kruger's whole squadron, which came here from Sevastopol to quell the mutiny on the battleship Kniaz Potemkin, is mutinous, or semimutinous, is the prevailing opinion here.

It is impossible to learn the true meaning of the movements of the Kniaz Potemkin and the other warships. The authorities pervert the truth and throw every obstacle in the way of getting it; troops still block all approach to the waterfront; every circumstance helps to hide what is happening on the battleships.

These facts remain: The Kniaz Potemkin is in the mutineers' hands still and has hauled down the flag of St. Andrew which she hoisted yesterday and again raised the red flag.

The crew of the Georgi Probiedons mutinied, but have repented and willing to surrender if amnesty is gra ed them. Forty of her crew were s ashore this morning as hostages, plea ing that they have not damaged t ship and asking the Czar's forgiven

The dread that Odessa will be she still possesses its citizens. In my op ion a bombardment is a remote pos bility. But it is difficult to forecast th ultimate development of this extraordinary situation.

The Black Sea squadron, which came here from Sevastopol, consisted of two divisions, commanded by Admiral Kruger and Admiral Vyshorevetsky. The former's division included the Rostislav and the Sinop and the latter's the Georgi Pobiedonosts, the Tria Svitaitelia, the Dveenadsat Apostoloff and the torpedo cruiser Kazarski. Several torpedo boats acompanied the squadron.

On arrival in the roads here flagship signaled the Kniaz Potemkin to join th squadron, to which the Potemkin re plied, "We ask that the admiral com on board us."

No answer being given the Kniaz Potemkin, she cleared for action and steamed at full speed along the whole fleet. She passed so close to the other vessels that those on them plainly s her commander. He wore a thick beard and was in civilian clothes. Several among the crews assert that they saw at least 30 men in civilian costume board the Kniaz Potemkin.

Admiral Kruger signaled the

WEDEN TAKES WARLIKE STEPS TOWARD NORWAY

Stockholm, Kariskrona, Gothenburg and Farosund, Declared to Be War Ports, Closed to Foreign Vessels.

KING OSCAR'S SHIPS CRUISE NORWAY COAST

Armed Conflict Sanctioned by Swedish Dominant Party—Strength of the Two Governments in Armies and Navies.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 3.—The Swedish Government has issued a proclamation to become effective immediately declaring the harbors of Stockholm, Kariskrona, Gothenburg and Farosund to be war ports and excluding all foreign warships from them. This is the first significant step taken y the Swedish Kingdom in retaliation for Norway's seceding.

The closing of four of the most important ports in the Kingdom has caused intense excitement throughout Sweden and Norway, as it is believed to be the initial move in the policy decided on by the Government to take more aggressive steps, which, if continued, must result in war between Sweden and Norway.

The spirit of hostility between the two countries, linked together for more than 90 years, has been spreading throughout both since Norway proclaimed secession June 7, but there has as yet been no open show of arms by either until yesterday, when the Swedish navy department sent several of its coast defense ships along the Norwegian coast.

The Swedish Government's policy indicating a readiness to resort to force is variously viewed. The prospect of war is sanctioned by the war party, which dominated the policy of the throne; but on the other hand there seems to be a general belief that there will not be any open hostility, and that the present apparent warlike preparations of the Swedish Government are solely intended to enforce conditions under which an independent Norwegian Government will ultimately be recognized.

There has been no movement by either country to increase either its land or naval forces.

The Swedish army on a peace footing numbers 37,200 men, which may be increased at the option of the throne. The Swedish navy consists of 13 cruisers, several coast defense gunboats and one submarine.

The Norwegian army, made up of local military organizations for defense purposes, numbers 30,000 men. Its independent navy heretofore employed exclusively in coast defense work, includes four ironclads, four monitors, twenty gunboats and several torpedo boats. Such of these vessels as are now in commission are engaged in coast patrol duty, and there has been no movement by either marine or the army establishment to increase its force or to equip it for more vigorous service.

The Swedish Government made no warlike move to prevent the carrying out of this policy until the last few days, and even now the Norwegians do not believe that she will force a war.

The Council of Defense in Norway does not fear war, but has put land forces qietly in condition for active service. It has provided a new national flag and made other changes in laws to cover new conditions.

The establishing of an independent government is generally indorsed by all Norwegians. The provisional government has applied itself more directly to securing recognition from other countries than to preparing for trouble with Sweden.

NORWEGIANS URGING RECOGNITION OF U. S.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—President Roosevelt is being urged strongly by the Norwegians in this country to recognize the sovereignty of Norway, and Western Senators have been requested by them to use their influence with the President to bring about this result. Thousands of petitions have been received here appealing to the President to act. Norway is particularly anxious for recognition so that consular officers can be sent to the United States for the purpose of promoting trade relations tween the two countries.

Notwithstanding these appeals the esident will not recognize the new overnment, as it would not only give fense to Sweden, but perhaps some of e other European natio[illegible] at the request [illegible] weden, ref[illegible] iving any reco[illegible]on whatever [illegible] Norway.

The ground [illegible] taken [illegible] recognition of Norway by the nited States would not benefit Norway in any way unless the European ations should take similar action. The question of the recognition is distinctly one of European politics, and it is the intention of the President to do nothing until after Germany, France and Great Britain have acted.

Arrives in the Promised Land Only to Weep With Bitter Disappointment

Young Aurel Kinesan, Who Came From Hungary, Was Detained at Ellis Island Because of Defect in His Eyesight, but Escaped to Brother in St. Louis; Only to Be Captured.

Because "errors of refraction" were found to exist in his eyes, Aurel Kinesan, 19 years old, who came from Hungary to visit his St. Louis brother, will probably have to return to his native land. He was arrested by Immigration Inspector Henry H. Moler of East St. Louis at the American Car and Foundry Works in Madison, Ill., Saturday, and is held in the St. Louis Jail awaiting instructions from the Ellis Island, N. Y., quarantine.

When young Kinesan was examined at Ellis Island quarantine the defect in his eyesight was discovered and, as it was his intention to remain in this country, he was detained for further study of his case, the likelihood being that his deportation would be ordered. Nine days ago, however, he escaped from quarantine and, after waiting several days in hiding in New York City, he received money from his brother with which to come to St. Louis.

Arrived here, the youth obtained employment on the East Side, but was finally traced by Immigration Inspector Moler and taken into custody. He can speak but little English, weeps bitterly because of his imprisonment and refuses to leave his cell in the City Jail when the door is opened during exercise hours. His escape from the Ellis Island quarantine was made during the visit of doctors to the detention ward and while their attention was devoted to other emigrant "suspects" in custody.

THREATEN TO FIRE ON THE KNIAZ POTEMKIN

ron. "Head for Sevastopol."

Commander Gazevitch of the Georgi Pobiedonozts signaled that the vessel's machinery was disabled. Admiral Kruger repeated his order to sail for Sevastopol, when the Georgi Pobiedonozts replied, "We remain here." She then steamed alongside the Potemkin and hoisted the signal, "We wish to hand you our officers."

This was the last signal seen by the squadron before heading for Sevastopol, where it did not remain long. The inference is that the civilians on the Potemkin are the revolutionaries whose agent incited the mutiny and who are now directing it. Indeed, it is reported that the Potemkin transferred a number of revolutionaries, including students and Jewish girls, to a British steamer, the name of which is not given.

Armed with the Military Governor's pass, which previously had been withheld, I gained access to the still military cordons and utterly desolate scenes of last Wednesday's frightful events.

Dead Now Number 1800.

Amid heaps of ruins are left ghastly evidence of the awful havoc caused by the machine guns and rifle volleys in the broadly spread and sun-blackened blood pools which cover an area of about a thousand acres. Eye witnesses assure me that no fewer than 1800 persons were killed that night, not counting those of 3000 wounded who have since succumbed.

Once the savage bombardment commenced, Cossacks, infantry and machine gunners all fired at sight. The wounded only escaped by lying prone in agony through the infernal night, scores of them being subsequently burned to death by the rapidly spreading flames. Whenever a wounded person, man or woman rose to his or her feet or tried to crawl away from the enveloping fire fiend, he or she was ruthlessly shot down again. In numerous cases people in hiding when driven forth by the flames fell on their knees imploring the soldiery to spare their lives, but were pitilessly riddled with bullets.

Schiller Heights Sale.

The special sale of lots at Schiller Heights Saturday and Sunday was a surprising success. One hundred and fifteen lots were sold. This number would have been greatly exceeded Mr. A. R. Schollmyer, agent for the property, believes, but for the heavy rains which precluded many from being present.

WHICH CITY WAS HE ROBBED IN?

F. L. Teasdale, who gives his address as 147 State street, Chicago, and his business as traveling salesman for a New York firm, has reported to the police that he was robbed, but he does not know whether it was at the hands of a man who drank whisky with him in St. Louis or one who drank with him in Kanas City.

[illegible] says he arrived in St. Louis [illegible] night. At the Union Station he met an affable stranger, they drank one or two whiskies together and Teasdale awoke next morning in the Princeton Hotel, Market and Sixth streets, feeling badly. He does not know how he landed in that hotel, he says.

He says that two sample cases containing 65 silk shirt waists, valued at $250, and a grip containing $55 in cash, his mileage book and overcoat and a copy of "Ben Hur," were missing.

To Special Officer Byrne, to whom he reported his misfortune, Teasdale says he is not sure that he had the cases and the grip with him when he arrived in St. Louis, that they may have been taken while he [illegible]sas City, where he had [illegible] whisky.

"COP" PAYS TO FREE TWO HE ARRESTED

After having arrested Ray Hayes, aged 19, of 2914 Dickson street, and W. E. Fromm, aged 20, of 4160 Juniata street, Sunday afternoon, Policeman Freeman of the Tower Grove Police Station paid one-half the costs assessed against them Monday in the Wyoming Street Police Court.

The young men were charged with having disturbed the peace in a fight over a baseball game in a vacant lot near Tower Grove Park, and, although the complainants did not appear against them, they pleaded guilty and were fined $5 and costs each, the fines being stayed on payment of costs.

Hayes and From had just $3 between them, and the total costs were $6. Policeman Freeman had not seen the fight, having arrested them on complaint of others, and he hated to see them go to the Workhouse in a case where there had been no direct evidence submitted against them. So he contributed the balance due of $3 and thus helped them to regain their freedom.

BODY WATCHED BY NATIONAL GUARD

Remains of Late Secretary John Hay Arrive at Cleveland.

FUNERAL ON WEDNESDAY

President Roosevelt and Cabinet Members to Attend Ceremonies.

CLEVELAND O., July 3.—The funeral services over the remains of the late Secretary of State John Hay have been set for 11 o'clock Wednesday morning. The special train bearing the casket arrived here this morning.

The funeral is to take place in Wade Chapel, at the Lake View Cemetery, and will be of the simplest character.

When the train passed through the suburbs of Glenville, five miles from the city, the funeral car and the private car in which the members of the Hay family are traveling were placed on a sidetrack until 10 o'clock, when they were brought into the city proper. While waiting at Glenville, the members of the family went to the residence of Samuel Mathers, brother-in-law of Mrs. Hay, where they had breakfast and remained until the start for Cleveland.

At the depot the funeral train was met by a committee of 12 prominent citizens of Cleveland, headed by Newton D. Baker, representing Mayor Tom L. Johnson. The military escort was furnished by Troop A of the Ohio National Guard, of which Secretary Hay was a charter member, under the command of Capt. William Schofield. The casket was carried by former sergeants of Troop A to the funeral carriage and as soon as the escort had taken its place was driven directly to the Chamber of Commerce. The casket was placed in the auditorium of the Chamber, in the identical spot where the remains of the late Senator Hanna lay in state.

In accordance with the wishes of Mrs. Hay, the remains of Mr. Hay did not lie in state, nor was the public admitted to view the remains. A guard of four members of Troop A was posted around the casket and will be maintained constantly until the casket is taken from the Chamber of Commerce at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning.

President Roosevelt and the members of the Cabinet are expected to arrive at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, at about the time set for the funeral cortege to leave the Chamber of Commerce for the cemetery. The local committee was not able to decide tonight whether the President would join the funeral party at the Chamber of Commerce and go with it to the cemetery or whether he and his party would join the family at the chapel.

Inasmuch as the members of the Cabinet are expected to act as honorary pallbearers, it is generally expected that the President and members of his party will participate in the passing of funeral cortege from the Chamber of Commerce to the cemetery.

The services in the chapel will be under the direction of Rev. Hiram C. Haydn, assisted by Rev. Teunis F. Hamlin of Washington. In accordance with the wishes of the family the services in the chapel will be private and of the simplest character. There will be little if any music and no address by either of the clergymen. The interment will also be as private as possible.

Mayor Johnson will be absent from the city in attendance at the bedside of his mother, who is seriously ill.

Throughout the funeral ceremonies he will be represented officially by City Solicitor Newton D. Baker.

A proclamation was issued tonight by Acting Mayor C. W. Lapp, in which he suggested that as far as possible the ordinary pursuits of business be suspended along the route to be taken by the funeral cortege and especially at the time of its passing. The public is also requested to refrain from indulging in noisy celebration of the Fourth of July in the vicinity of the Chamber of Commerce during the time it contains the body of the dead Secretary.

The stay of President Roosevelt in Cleveland on Wednesday will be limited to five hours and during that time he will not partake of any hospitality from the citizens of Cleveland. His train will arrive at 10 o'clock and he will drive at once either to the Chamber of Commerce or to the cemetery and will, after the services are concluded, return at once to his train, which will leave for Oyster Bay at 3 o'clock.

SECRETARY HAY'S DEATH MAY BRING BACK LOOMIS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The fact that the President has ordered Secretary Taft to continue his trip to the Philippines has not lessened the belief among those close to the administration that Mr. Taft will be appointed to succeed Mr. Hay. It is stated at the War Department that there are some matters in the Philippines regarding which the President is well-informed, that demand the immediate and personal attention of Mr. Taft. These questions are of more importance than the planning of the thousand-mile railway system. Just what they are no one will say, but it is declared that Mr. Taft alone can dispose of them and that the postponement of his trip would be practically impossible.

As matters stand now there is no reason why a permanent successor to Mr. Hay need to be appointed before Mr. Taft returned, early in October. Second Assistant Adee, th veteran of the State Department, will be back in a few days. He is more familiar than any other official of the department with the policies of Mr. Hay, many of which he assisted in framing and there is perfect confidence that he could carry them out for the three months that Mr. Taft will be away.

Assistant Secretary Loomis probably will return in time to formally receive the peace plenipotentiaries, as was planned before he left. If his return should be delayed and the President should wish some one of higher rank than Mr. Adee to welcome the commissioners, it would be easy for him to temporarily appoint a Secretary of State, who would retire when Mr. Taft was ready to assume the office. An arrangement of that kind was made when Robert J. Wynne was appointed Postmaster-General, and there are plenty of men who would be available for such a service.

Suit About a Saloon.

The American Brewing Company filed suit Monday against the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association and Gustav Muller, Rosina Muller and R. F. Brown, alleging that it is the owner of the fixtures of the hotel, saloon and boarding house at 1104-1110 South Fourth street, and that the defendants are unlawfully holding it. The complainant asks for the release of the property and $100 damages.

LID WAS OFF ALL OVER THE COUNTY

Drinks Served Openly at Delmar and Suburban—Initiation Fee Belmont Club.

MORISCHE'S GROVE EASY

Justice Campbell Sat at Cashier's Desk and Beamed on Patrons.

At the bar, on the porch of the cottage and through the grove at Delmar Garden drinks of the kind prohibited by law were sold Sunday. The Sunday closing law was openly violated, the management, it appeared, wished to save the patrons the inconvenience of going outside the grounds to Max Gumperts' roadhouse, the Dew Drop Inn or "Bob" Smith's saloon, on Delmar boulevard, near the entrance to the garden. At those three places great business was done Sunday and it was done openly. There were no pilgrimages through back alleys and rear rooms to get to the bar. At all three places the front doors were fastened back.

Some sense of the artistic was displayed in the manner of raising the lid at the Suburban Garden. Melbourne MacDowell appeared there Sunday evening in the opening performance of "La Tosca." In the breakfast scene, during the first act, MacDowell was forced by the exigencies provided by the play to drink.

The audience held its dry breath for several seconds, when it thought it recognized the label of a made-in St. Louis beverage on the bottle brought to the man on the stage. Presently the act ended and people in the audience found waiters among them, smiling for orders. The waiters remained with them until the end of the play.

The Belmont Club at West End Heights, asking 25 cents initiation fee, entitling members to 25 cents' worth of goods at the bar, increased its membership by many hundreds Sunday. Many men joined more than once during the afternoon and evening.

Deputy Sheriffs Olderworth and Campbell by their presence prevented the selling of drinks at Creve Coeur Lake for some hours Sunday, but the lid sailed high when they left. At Studt's Park no difficulty confronted thirsty folks. At Meramec Highlands it was the same.

Two arrests were made by the city police during the day on the charge of violating the Sunday closing law. Carrie Werder, wife of Emil Werder, 1907 Franklin avenue, was found in the saloon, where were four men, two of whom were drinking beer. Joseph Lauber, 5800 Cote Brilliante avenue, was found selling whisky, it is alleged, by two policemen, who arrested him.

"Booze" of All Kinds.

The warmest spot in St. Louis County Sunday was Morische's Grove on Maple avenue, west of the Suburban tracks. Morische runs a dance hall in a building where the poolroom gamblers made their last stand in St. Louis County five years ago. The blackboards used for posting odds are still in evidence at the place.

Hundreds of young boys and girls cultivated an abnormal thirst by strenuous waltzing in the dancehall and waiters by the score surrounded them when they finished dancing and supplied them "booze" of every description.

Justice of the Peace "Ike" Campbell of Wellston, sat beside Morische at the cashier's desk most of the evening and watched the coin accumulate from the sale of alcoholic refreshments. Justice's evident acquiescence with the manner in which things are conducted there is assuring to the crowd, which is not in favor of having the lid kept down.

Justice Campbell strolled through the grove at intervals during the evening and greeted his friends with a smile. The Justice's friends say he visits the garden in search of business. Competition between St. Louis County justices is almost as keen as the competition between the Belleville justices for matrimonial business.

Justice Campbell's court is only one block east of Morische's. All differences arising between Morische's patrons on Saturday night and Sunday are adjudicated in Campbell's court Monday morning.

The lid has never bothered Morische's patrons. The grove is off the beaten path, being located back of Delmar Garden and nearly a mile from the Delmar midway.

COURT COMMENDS BOYS' FIST FIGHT

"I Had Many a Bump When a Youth," Says Judge Bishop.

"I had many a good-sized bump on my head when I was a boy," said Judge Bishop of the Juvenile Court Monday, "as well as black eyes, and was none the worse for them. It is commendable for boys to settle their difficulties with their fists, as long as they resort to no more violent measures."

Judge Bishop was passing on the case of Joseph Parzkowski, 14 years old, of 4657 Michigan avenue, and Joseph Pansky, aged 15, of 4714 Minnesota avenue, bottle washers at Lemp's brewery, who were arrested June 29 for fighting on the complaint of the foreman.

Patrolman Gerk, who made the arrest, testified that both boys had "hickeys" (bumps) on their heads and that one of them had a black eye.

Judge Bishop then spoke, as aforesaid; said that the foreman should have separated the boys without calling a policeman; admonished the policeman to use more judgment hereafter in hauling boys into the Juvenile Court for such slight offenses and discharged the defendants.

JACOB LOPEZ, WHO MET DEATH IN DIVE

JACOB LOPEZ

KILLED IN DIVE, HEAD HIT ROCK

One of Outing Party at Shut-Ins Brought to Surface Dead.

The body of Jacob Lopez, who was drowned while bathing at the Shut-Ins, three miles southeast of Ironton, Mo., Sunday, was brought to St. Louis by Adolph Lopez of 3748 Westminster place, his brother.

With Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Burg and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burns, all of St. Louis, Lopez went to the Shut-Ins Sunday to spend the day. The men put on bathing suits and after being in the water a short time Lopez dived from a low ledge of rock. He failed to come to the surface, and the women, who were watching him, screamed to their husbands. Diving failed to discover the body, which had been washed down stream by the swift current. Assistance was summoned from Ironton and a large party of citizens dived and dragged the stream for an hour before the body was found 250 yards below the pool in which the party was bathing. A deep hole was found in the top of the head, caused, it is thought, by a stone probably washed into the pool by recent freshets.

The Shut-Ins is a narrow gorge between the mountains, through which Stout's Creek runs, and is the only water outlet of the beautiful Arcadia Valley. It is very picturesque and is well known to many St. Louisans.

Jacob Lopez was 34 years old. He was born in Ironton and lived the greater part of his life in that place, though he spent a great deal of his time in St. Louis. Associated with his brother, he was a member of the Lopez company, which owns the Graniteville & Middlebrook Railroad. He had also with his brother conducted mercantile establishments at Ironton, Piedmont and Farmington, and at one time a tannery and leather factory in St. Louis. He was unmarried. His brother Adolph alone survives him.

The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

TWO ADDITIONS TO INSANE ASYLUM

$150,000 Available for One Wing, and Mayor Will Ask an Appropriation.

President O'Reilly of the Board of Public Improvements Monday instructed Building Commissioner Smith to prepare plans for two new wings to be added to the Insane Asylum Building, flanking the building on each side.

Mayor Wells, Comptroller Player and President O'Reilly recently visited the Insane Asylum, their inspection convincing them that the need of additional quarters was imperative. The Mayor then informed President O'Reilly that $150,000 was available for the purpose.

"That will only pay for one wing," was the reply, "and we need the two wings."

"Go ahead and build them then," the Mayor answered. "I will have a bill introduced in the Municipal Assembly making the necessary appropriation."

The instructions to the Building Commissioner are the outcome of this visit. The two new wings will be four stories in height and will accommodate 300 additional patients. There are 650 patients now in the Insane Asylum, 92 at the State Asylum in Farmington, Mo., and 865 harmless and incurable demented patients at the City Poorhouse, 17 of whom are children. The total of 1607 insane now being cared for by the city breaks all local records.

In the event that a special session of the Municipal Assembly is called this summer to approve contracts for street reconstruction, as is now contemplated, the bill appropriating the amount necessary to complete the two new wings of the Insane Asylum will then be introduced.

Pure food laws are good. Burnett's Vanilla is pure. Insist upon having Burnett's.

TUGGED HORSE UPSTAIRS.

No Fine for Crowd of People, Because of Wrong Charge.

Judge Tracy ruled Monday that no charge of dsturbing the peace will lie when the circumstances are merely that a crowd of people tries to lead a horse belonging to someone else up the steps of the crowd's home.

He said if the charge had been of cruelty to the horse he would have considered the case; but disturbance of the peace—never.

The arrested ones were Fred Hegge and his wife, Mrs. Alice Hegge, who live at 805 South Second street, and three men who were visiting them last Monday. Charles Hudson, a negro, living at 213 Gratiot street, was the complaining witness.

Hudson testified that when he reached home he found the Hegges and their friends trying to get his horse up their back stairs. Mrs. Hegge had the unwilling brute by the head, and the others had the other end. Mrs. Hegge pulled and the others pushed, and they had the horse half way up the steps when Hudson came on the scene. Then they left and Hudson had to find his own way of returning the horse to solid ground.

Judge Tracy said the evidence showed cruelty to an animal, but no disturbances of Hudson's peace, and therefore the defendants were dismissed.

PISTOLS AND GUNS BARRED ON FOURTH

All Sorts of Aerial Fireworks Will Be Permitted by Order of Chief Kiely

LID ON CANNON CRACKERS

Celebration Must Be Confined Strictly to the 24 Hours of the Fourth.

Fireworks That Are Allowed and Barred.

ALLOWED.	CONTRABAND.
Skyrockets,	Pistols,
Roman Candles,	Shotguns,
Nigger Chasers,	Cannon Crackers,
Pinwheels,	Torpedo Canes,
Flower Pots,	Gaspipe Cannons,
Greek Fires,	All Bonfires Near Buildings.
All Aerial Fireworks.

Chief of Police Kiely now thoughtfully comes to the front with an official list of the fireworks and explosives that will be permitted to be discharged on the Fourth of July, and a contrasting list, or index expurgatorius of those that are forbidden and the use of which will be followed by prompt arrest.

Here are the pyrotechnics on Chief Kiely's "permitted" list: Skyrockets, Roman candles, nigger chasers, pinwheels, flower pots, Greek fires and all other kinds of aerial fireworks.

Here is the Chief's "forbidden" list: Pistols, shotguns, cannon crackers, torpedo canes, gaspipe cannons and all bonfires adjacent to buildings.

The only cases in which bonfires will be permitted is when they are built on big vacant lots, at a safe distance from buildings of any description, and when the policemen on the beat shall have inspected and approved them.

Chief Kiely announces that the use of any of the explosives, fireworks or firearms mentioned in his list of forbidden things will result in the arrest of the offender.

To End With Midnight.

The Chief of Police makes a further official declaration to the effect that the lid will be closed down on Fourth of July celebrations at midnight of Tuesday or shortly thereafter. There shall be no Independence Day pyrotechnics permitted after the Fourth, he announces. In past years the celebration has been prolonged throughout July 5 and 6, the Chief says, and this will now be stopped.

Any person setting off even the most harmless of the fireworks after the Fourth will be arrested and held to answer for violation of the law governing the case.

So now there are two things to do in celebrating the Fourth according to Chief of Police Kiely's announcements:

First. Use only those fireworks named in his official list as permitted under the law.

Second. Do all your Fourth of July celebrating between midnight of Monday, July 3, and midnight of Tuesday, July 4.

Permits are required for all fireworks displays, but it is unofficially stated that arrests will not be made because no permit has been obtained so long as the character of the display is not contrary to the regulations. But those contemplating elaborate displays will find it safer to obtain permits.

Firecrackers do not appear on either of Chief Kiely's lists but they are, of course, allowed when their size is not objectionable. The policemen will be expected to use discretion in determining when a redjacketed noisemaker is so large that it is not a firecracker but is a cannon cracker.

WOODWORKERS PLAN STRIKE

One of the first moves is expected to be the shutting down of 14 factories where union employes are scheduled to strike, thereby locking out more than 7000 men. The woodworkers unions expect the strike to last 10 weeks, while the employers are prepared to abandon their business for a year.

FINED FOR POOL GAMBLING.

Eight Young Men Arrested in Saloon Game.

Eight young men arrested Saturday night with Fred Burchild, by Detectives McKenna and Bolger, while playing in an open game of pool at Burchild's saloon, 2251 South Grand avenue, were fined $5 each in the City Hall Police Court Monday.

The arresting officers testified that the players put 10 cents each into the pool, which was paid to the winner of the game, less a charge by the house of 2½ cents per cue.

Burchild took the stand in behalf of the players and contended that the game was one of skill and not one of chance. Judge Tracy declared that, as Burchild and the others played it it was a gambling game, and therefore he imposed the fines, which were paid.

"BEEF BARONS CAN'T DODGE PROSECUTION'

Civil Court Can't Interfere in Criminal Proceedings, Crow Holds.

INJUNCTION CAN'T SAVE

Supreme Court, He Says, Has Upheld This Interpretation of Law.

"It is a well-established principle of law, and there are decisions of the higher courts to support [illegible] that an equity court cannot enjoin a criminal prosecution," said former Attorney-General Crow to a Post-Dispatch reporter Monday, in reply to a question as to whether in his judgment the beef barons indicted by the Federal grand jury at Chicago on Saturday could escape criminal prosecution by seeking an injunction from the United States Circuit Court there.

During his term of office Mr. Crow convicted the four companies constituting the Beef Trust of violating the Missouri anti-trust law, and each of them was fined $5000 in the Supreme Court.

No criminal proceedings were instituted.

According to the dispatches from Chicago J. Ogden Armour and his millionaire associates in the great packing industry, against whom true bills have been found by the Federal grand jury, have authorized their general counsel, John S. Miller, to prevent their prosecution if possible by resort to civil proceedings.

Packers' Contention.

"The action we have in view," said Mr. Miller, "will be uncommon, but not without precedent.

"My clients will ask for an injunction against prosecution under the indictments on the ground that the criminal prosecution would be irregular. It is a well settled rule of law that where a plaintiff goes into court of equity seeking an injunction and obtains it the same plaintiff cannot institute criminal proceedings against the defendant.

"The packing firms are now under an injunction made permanent by Judge Grosscup in the Circuit Court. If they have violated that injunction they ought to be cited for contempt before that tribunal, instead of being indicted in the United States Court."

Mr. Crow takes direct issue with the chief counsel of the Beef Trust.

Can't Interfere.

"The Missouri Supreme Court long ago held," said he, "that a civil court could not interfere with a criminal proceeding.

"The same ruling was upheld some years ago by the Supreme Court of the United States."

The packers contend that an injunction acts as a supersedeas to criminal prosecution.

"The Federal anti-trust statute is clear on that point. It provides two remedies, namely, injunction and criminal prosecution, either or both of which the Government may put into operation to prevent violations.

"If I remember rightly the Federal Government, about ten years ago, secured an injunction against the Chicago strikers and at the same time prosecuted them criminally.

"Likewise in the St. Louis street car strike. While an injunction was pending against them, the strike leaders were indicted on the charge of conspiracy by the Federal grand jury here.

Can Prosecute.

"It was not then contended that the criminal proceeding was estopped by the fact that the Equity Court had issued a restraining order.

"It is possible the attorneys of the Beef Trust are raising some point that has not been made clear in the dispatches. But from the report sent out today there is nothing, in my judgment, on which the big packers can rely to save themselves from criminal prosecution."

In addition to J. Ogden Armour, the following Beef Trust officials were indicted at Chicago:

Charles Armour, T. J. Conners, P. A. Valentine, Samuel McRoberts and Louis F. Swift, representing Armour & Co.; Louis F. Swift, Edward F. Swift, L. A. Carton, A. F. Evans, A. H. Veeder, D. E. Hartwell, R. C. McManus and Charles Swift of Swift & Co.; Edward Morris and Ira Morris of Nelson, Morris & Co.; Samuel Weil, V. D. Skipworth, Beth S. Casey and C. E. Todd of Cudahy & Co.

POLICE ASKED TO LOCATE CLAXTON

Glass Company's Stenographer Disappears Just Before $4500 Loss.

PAY ENVELOPES TAKEN

Racetrack Form Sheets Found in Valley Park Room of Missing Man.

Officials of the St. Louis Plate Glass Co. at Valley Park, in St. Louis County, have asked the Sheriff and detectives to locate William Spencer Claxton, formerly a stenographer in the glass company's office, who has been missing since Saturday noon.

His disappearance was just before officials of the company, going to the safe to take out 200 pay envelopes containing about $4500, found the combination disarranged and the doors tightly closed. The safe was drilled open and the pay envelopes found to be missing.

Then it was discovered that Claxton, when he had started with other office employes to lunch, had turned back with an excuse and later had been seen to board a Frisco train for St. Louis. He carried a suit case. At 1:15 p. m., Saturday he was seen to leave the Frisco train at Tower Grove Station, still carrying the suit case.

Saturday and Sunday a search of Claxton's rooms at Valley Park was made and detectives say they found a quantity of racetrack form sheets and other documents concerning race horses and racetrack gambling.

It is said that Claxton has no living relatives. He went to the glass works company from the commercial department of the Rock Island Railroad a year ago.

Saturday was the semi-monthly payday of the 200 glass works employes, but when the money was missing payday had to be deferred to 1 p. m., Monday.

CHARLEY HICKMAN "JUMPS" TIGERS

Detroit's First Baseman Quits Because of Personal Trouble With Manager Armour.

According to "Big Bill" Bernhardt, the Cleveland pitcher, who was here with the Blues Sunday, Charley Hickman, the hard-hitting first baseman of the Detroit team, "jumped" the Tigers Saturday at Cleveland and has gone to his home in Pennsylvania.

Bernhardt, who was seen at the Southern Hotel Sunday evening before the departure of the Lajoletes for Cleveland, said:

"The reason for Hickman's "jump" was an old personal trouble between "Hick" and Manager Armour of the Detroit team. Hickman was under Armour at Cleveland, covering the first sack and second, and, although playing an excellent game and hitting the ball hard, Armour arranged for his transfer to Detroit, which was then under the managerial rein of Barrows, now of Indianapolis.

"Hickman played at first for Detroit and was the leading batsman of the team.

"With the advent of Armour as manager of the Detroit club this year the old ill-feeling between the pair again cropped up, and Armour was the first to display it by removing Hickman from first and relegating him to right field, sending Sam Crawford, a man who had never before played the position, to first.

"Hickman played an excellent game in the field and his batting won many games, making him a favorite with Detroit fandom. A few weeks ago Armour made another shift, sending Crawford out to right and Hickman back to his original position. But the bickerings kept up, and finally, Hickman saying: 'I can't stand this any longer, I'm going home,' packed his belongings and quit."

Hickman started in the profession as a pitcher for the Boston Nationals and has played with the New York Giants. Whether he will remain steadfast to his resolve to stay away from Detroit remains to be seen.

ROBBED OF HIS WINNINGS.

Beat Negroes at Craps, Charges They Knocked Him Down.

Abe Johnson, Wilburt Johnson and William Rogers, all colored and all residing in St. Louis, were arrested in East St. Louis Sunday afternoon on complaint of George Stokes of St. Louis, who accuses them of having robbed him of $12.

Stokes went fishing in Cahokia Creek, back of the Armour Packing Co.'s plant Sunday afternoon. He tells the East St. Louis police that he engaged in a craps game with the three negroes, and won $3 from them—all they had. He gave them 15 cents for carfare, he says, and they followed him down the creek, knocked him down and robbed him.

Monday the negroes waived a preliminary hearing and were held for the grand jury.

DANCING ONLY IN PARKS.

East St. Louis Has New Ordinance Regulating Saloons.

An ordinance passed by the City Council of East St. Louis Monday, drawn at the instance of Mayor Cook, will put an end to all Sunday dancing in the city, except in two parks. The ordinance prohibits dancing in dance halls or in halls connected with saloons on Sunday, but permits dancing in parks, when a permit is obtained from the Mayor. There are only two parks in the city fitted for dancing.

Some saloonkeepers, discussing ways and means of evading the provisions of the law, have decided to plant trees about the little yards in connection with their saloons and to call these parks.

The same ordinance prohibits the operation of winerooms and the keeping of musical instruments in connection with saloons, except by written permission of the Mayor.

Hurt Stopping Runaway.

Edward Schumacher, stopping a runaway horse at Eleventh and Biddle streets Sunday night, was kicked by the horse and slightly hurt. William Atting, 3318 North Fourteenth street; Harry Mayering and Arthur West of Blair avenue and Destrehan street were driving the horse when it ran away. As the rig collided with a trolley pole at Biddle and Eleventh streets, Schumacher caught the animal.

Bitten by a Dog.

Nathan Collen of 1116 North Eleventh street, passing the residence of Charles Busalika, 1109 North Ninth street, was bitten by a dog. The injury was not serious. Busalika had the dog shot.

DEATH FOLLOWED LOVERS' QUARREL

Relatives of William Spaulding Believe He Shot Himself Accidentally.

The funeral of William Spaulding of Worden, Ill., who shot himself through the heart Saturday night after taking Miss Elsie Dubre home from a buggy ride, took place from the home of his parents, Rev. and Mrs. John Spaulding, at 2 p. m. Monday.

Although the parents of young Spaulding express their conviction that his death was due to accident, and a Coroner's jury was unable to agree as to whether the case was one of suicide or accidental shooting, Coroner J. E. Marks, who came from Edwardsville to conduct the inquest, believes that Spaulding shot himself intentionally. This belief is shared by the majority of the residents of Worden.

During the past week, it is said, young Spaulding has visited all his relatives and friends in Worden, and it is now believed that these visits were made because he had resolved to kill himself if Miss Dubre refused to marry him, and that they were in the nature of farewell visits to all for whom he cared. The fact that he had thus made the rounds of friends and kinfolk was brought out after his death, nothing unusual being thought of the visits at the time.

According to Miss Dubre's own story, she and young Spaulding had a disagreement during their ride, but she says that she thought they were reconciled when he said good-night to her shortly after midnight Saturday. She stood at the gate to watch him out of sight as he drove away, she says, but could not see his figure in the buggy, as the top was up and the rear blinds down.

When he was about one hundred yards distant she heard a shot, and the next moment the body of young Spaulding fell from the buggy into the road. Spaulding's horse, frightened, galloped off with the buggy.

Miss Dubre called to her brother, Charles, and the two ran to the scene and found young Spalding dead.

F. W. Lahmeier, a friend of William Spaulding, says that about two weeks ago the latter borrowed from him a revolver. When asked what he wanted it for he said that he wished to use it on the Fourth of July. Young Spaulding had never been known to carry a pistol, and was a very quiet and devout young man, a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church of which his father is pastor and a frequent leader of the prayer meeting services.

Struck by Street Car.

Dennis Driscoll, 27 North Boyle avenue, returning from East St. Louis Sunday night, was hit by a street car near the west tower of the bridge. His left cheek was slightly cut.

ROAD TO OLD CAHOKIA NOT DEAD ON SUNDAY; ALIVE WITH THIRSTY

Historic Thoroughfare, Long Deserted, Now Crowded With Merrymakers Who Cross on Ferry to Escape the Lid in Taverns Along Its Pretty Way.

If you take interest in American history, aboriginal and modern, if you can obtain pleasure from tracing, statistically, the growth of our nation, go across the river to Cahokia, the town of 200 years, the one-time metropolis of this portion of the Mississippi Valley, where St. Louis folk went shopping and to whose age and size St. Louis looked up with respect, go across the river to Cahokia, St. Clair County, Ill., journey along the pretty road that leads from the river to the town and——

Count the empty beer bottles between the ferry and the Hungry Six Club, Cahokia.

From the river to the center of the village the dirt road was crowded yesterday with people who were more or less enthused.

'Tis a strange change that the years have wrought. A time there was when our sturdy forefathers of St. Louis, fighting in the wilderness the battle for personal liberty, crossed on the ferry to Cahokia to obtain the provender of life and those things of civilization which came sooner to the Illinois town than to the smaller village on the western shore.

Now, by hundreds, St. Louisans return to that decaying monument of the Western spirit of Personal Liberty as to a refuge from the stern, arbitrary Law, which would deny them their Sunday beer.

And so it is an interesting journey. The steamer Florence of the Sidney street ferry carries a great crowd across the river. Several persons asked one of the ferrymen about the schedule and was told that the boat ran back and forth as fast as possible. "There's always business," he said.

Getting off the ferry, one trods the "Road to Old Cahokia," deserted for so many years.

Trailing up the smooth, well beaten cinder highway, which has lately been fixed up, to a tavern that faces the river a quarter of a mile from the shore, one is surprised to see a row of street lamps, six or seven in all. They seem completely out of place there, but they serve a good purpose for the large night traffic.

Busy Tavern.

The tavern, which is pretty well worn and frayed, though said to be of recent construction, is "Sweigler's Place." Sweigler's is a busy place. The wide veranda was crowded with people, mostly men, and so, also, were the yards, the barns and various sheds about the tavern. Some of these people were or had been drinking.

There was not much to see at Sweigler's except some little girls, nice-looking little girls, playing in a barroom that was packed with men drinking and singing, small boys playing their nickels and dimes against slot machines; a piano player playing rag-time that was fine on a grand piano; three barkeepers working in a way that would dig the Panama Canal in a year; more men, outside, drinking and singing.

The road to the next tavern is as pretty a country drive as one could well wish. It was lined with heavy shade trees and was smooth and level.

Along this half-mile stretch of pike were six gambling men with their stands, entertaining the unsuspicious South Siders of St. Louis with the encient and honorable game of chuck-a-luck and the never-old game of three shells and a pellet. They seem to be doing right well.

Close to the second tavern was a game of "craps," in which many players were taking part and whereat many spectators watched.

"The Red House, John Stoecklin, Prop.," was the sign at this place. The Red House was painted red long, long ago, and is still that color. It was built in the century now five years dead and was built for a country tavern of that time. Some great men have eaten and slept in the Red House, it is said.

The saloon and grounds presented a picture of great activity. The bar was filled and the same sight of overworked barkeepers was seen. People lounged about the courtyard, some with beer bottles in their hands, some without. Some watched others shooting at clay pigeons, south of the house, at the edge of the grove. In the grove itself were swings, enjoyed by little folk whom some parents had brought with them. Some ate fish sandwiches, made and sold by two very prosperous merchants.

Some went fishing. Many who came over on the ferry carried fishing tackle. These all passed the second tavern, going on toward Cahokia to fish in Cahokia Creek, which lies halfway between.

In Cahokia.

The attractive road told of is now the property of the St. Clair Ferry and Transfer Co., a private right of way. Beyond the Red house the ownership evidently ceases, for one sees no more signs bearing the name. Then the road becomes exceedingly bad, full of mud holes and displeasing twists. A foot path at the side has been patted down until very serviceable, however.

The Hungry Six Club in Cahokia is about the first thing one sees in the town, it being the first of the three or four dozen houses. It is a small affair of one story, built in recent months. It seems to prosper on Sunday.

The few houses of the old village are scattered over several acres, leaving many vacant spots convenient for little parties of St. Louisans who come picnicking. Several such parties camped on the various green spots, men and women, eating and drinking.

Cahokians, or, as the Indians were called, Caoquians, point out a spot near the center of the town where the great Chief Pontiac fell, slain by a treacherous Peoria Indian.

"D'ye see thet place right thar—right thar, now, where thet woman is pouring somethin' from a bottle? Thet's it. Thet's whar he fell!"

The steamer Florence was just landing on the Illinois side as a crowd reached the shore on the return trip. A small boy with a large bucket in his hand slipped under the rail and jumped ashore before the boat fairly stopped. He sped through the crowds coming down to the boat and disappeared.

A few minutes later, before the steamer had started upstream and across he came scurrying back. He was not running so fast and he was carrying that bucket with very much more care.

Its contents are not so plentiful in St. Louis on Sunday that he could afford to spill a single drop.

MET FIRST AT THE FAIR.

Met Again Last Saturday and Now They Are Married.

As the happy result of a meeting during the World's Fair period, Henry Niedfeld, aged 25, of 1831 Olive street and Miss Mabel Leathers, aged 23, of 1812 Olive street went to East St. Louis bright and early Monday, obtained a marriage license and were married by Justice Brady, returning to St. Louis after the ceremony.

The bride does not live at the Olive street number given, but at Mount Eagle, Pa. She is now visiting friends in St. Louis, but did not know until she came here that Henry Neidfeld, a good-looking young shoemaker whom she had met at the World's Fair last summer, lived on the same block with her friends. She encountered him, however, the day she arrived.

And since that day, which was last Saturday, Neidfeld prosecuted his suit with such fervor that he soon gained Miss Leathers' consent to marry him. There was no necessity for their eloping as no objections were raised against their marriage.

"A ROYAL ROGUE" REIGNS AT DELMAR

"La Tosca" at Suburban Garden, Shakspeare at Koerner's—Other Bills.

The musical company at Delmar Garden is having an exciting adventure this week. It is trying to revive "A Royal Rogue." Excellent revivalists though they are, the Delmar players find it just about all they can do to restore life to this old musical mummy. It has been a long time dead, for one thing, and never was very lively, anyway, for another.

Dr. Charles H. Jones, a skillful specialist in such cases, has been holding a number of clinics over "A Royal Rogue." He called in other experts—Dr. Gus Weinburg, Dr. Eleanor Kent, Dr. Stella Tracey, Dr. Edwin Clarke, Dr. William Clifton, Dr. W. H. West, Dr. Bessie Fairbairn and Dr. Pearl Revare.

This distinguished company of confreres applied restoratives which easily revived King Dodo, but up to last night "A Royal Rogue" was still unable to recognize anyone at his bedside.

There is some prospect that he may come to later in the week and dance a little. The skill of the consulting physicians gives more promise of this than any sign which has come from the patient. Dr. Jones has done everything he can do, and Dr. Weinburg and Dr. Tracey are giving him a great deal of their valuable time. It is quite sad to look on, and the audience which attended the Sunday night clinic seldom stirred. The queer professional antics of Dr. Weinburg sometimes caused the audience to forget itself and laugh light-heartedly and Dr. Tracey's dainty touches aroused applause.

"A Royal Rogue" does not belong to the "King Dodo" dynasty, but is identified with that inferior line which embraces "A Sleepy King," "King's X," etc.

A bottle of beer, which Le Baron Scarpia quaffed during the breakfast scene in the Castle St. Angelo, appealed strongly to a large audience at Suburban Park last night, and in that was in keeping with all the other features of the opening performance of "La Tosca," presented by Melbourne MacDowell, assisted by Miss Ethel Fuller and his own company. The production is up to the MacDowell standard.

The Baron Scarpia of Mr. MacDowell, the polished and pious hypocrite, he of the superlative refined brutality, lost nothing by being presented in the open air. It was the MacDowell portrayal of old, with the same careful attention to detail that has marked the tragedian's previous performances farther removed from noisy scenic railways, pike parkers and clanging street car bells.

Until a week ago an "unknown" to St. Louisans, Miss Fuller is proving a decidedly pleasing surprise, and her work last night in the exacting title role of the insanely jealous, yet passionate and devoted Tosca, was forceful and convincing, if at times lacking delicacy and finish.

The Mario Carvarodossi of Willard Blackmore was well done, especially his lighter scenes with the jealous Tosca, and the supporting company, while not exceptional, was acceptable.

The one member of the company deserving censure is the property man. The dagger with which he supplies La Tosca, and which cuts short the career of the cruel Scarpia, bears too strong a resemblance to a cleaver or a meat ax for perfect effect, and the breach-loading shotguns with which the soldiers kill the escaping Tosca stand out rather prominently in the atmosphere of 1800. And apropos of the soldiers and their uniforms, a corporal's guard from Coxy's army could not have offered more variety in the way of wearing apparel.

Rain interfered somewhat with the balloon ascensions at Forest Park Highlands yesterday, but not with the enjoyment of the vaudeville which Col. Hopkins had provided for his pavilion. Lew Hawkins is the star of the bill closely followed by the Ellis-Nowlan Trio, whose acrobatic work shows that there are still unexplored possibilities in the good old knock-about comedy which is so closely allied to comic acrobatics, that there is no telling one from the other. Lew blandly applies his stanzas to the "lid," and those instrumental in putting it on. Quite pleasing is the Mexican trio of singers and dancers. Clivette has some new touches to his shadowgraphy, and the trio of Sylvester, Jones and Pringle do good singing. George Jones, a St. Louis singer, is one of them. The balloonists will be retained all week.

The West End Heights stock company is this week playing "East Lynne," that old time emotional drama, guaranteed to draw tears from even an audience of wooden Indians; the piece that we used to see billed in its pictorial eloquence when Ada Gray was in her prime. Then West End Gardenites like contrasts; they want a heroine, because she is always just the "very sweetest ever," and they count on watching her triumph over the villain. The "East Lynne" persecuted heroine finally dies, which is not very satisfactory to them, but the schemer gets paid for it all. Miss Lackeye had the double part of Lady Isabel and Madame Vine, and, in the death scene, was particularly effective. Mr. Chagnon fulfilled expectations as Archibald Carlyle. Miss Davis' character role of Cornelia was the best she has done here. With one or two exceptions, the balance of the cast did excellent work.

The company is doing better work every week. It is surprising and deplorable that its patronage does not increase. When the people overlook such capable players as Miss Lackaye, Miss Lamont, Mr. Chagnon and Mr. Seay, they are missing something worth while.

Mrs Burnet Laid to Rest.

The funeral of Mrs. Sarah Burnet, who died Friday from congestion of the brain, was held Sunday afternoon from the residence of Dr. W. B. Outen of 3515 Pine street to the Mount Olive Cemetery. Rev. Dr. J. W. Lee, pastor of St. John's Southern Methodist Church, conducted the services. Mrs. Burnet was 77 years of age, and had resided continuously in St. Louis or St. Louis County for 50 years. Mrs. W. B. Outen, wife of Dr. Outen, chief surgeon of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, and a son, George Burnet, former president of the Board of Public Improvements, survive her.

BANDITS HOLD UP STREET CAR CREWS

Two Trains Robbed and $53 Taken by Two Men Near Council Bluffs Io.

OMAHA, Neb., July 3.—Two cars of the Omaha and Council Bluffs Street Railroad were held up tonight at 11 o'clock, at the east end of the Missouri River Bridge, between this city and Council Bluffs, and $53 secured from the crews.

The robbers, two young men, who were masked, had just completed their work with the first car when a second car came along and was halted. From the first crew the robbers secured $38, and from the second $15. They also relieved the men of their watches, but returned them before hastily departing through the woods to the north.

There were no passengers on either car.

Thanks to Typo Officers.

Early, Secretary-Treasurer, and the entire Executive Committee for the manner in which they handled the eight-hour question in dealing with the employing job printers, resulted instead in a vote of thanks. The resolution of censure could not be put formally before the meeting, as a rising vote showed anly nine men in favor of it.

HOSPITAL DULL, SINCE THE LID

Superintendent Brown of the Ci Hospital said Monday that the numb of surgical cases received at the ho pital had greatly decreased since t enforcement of the Sunday closing la

On the first Sunday in June, 1904, th total number of cases received at t hospital was 75, of which 18 were su gical; the same day this year the total were 38 and 7. Second Sunday, la year, 61 cases, 18 surgical; this year, cases, 4 surgical. Third Sunday, la year, 49 cases, 19 surgical; this year, cases, 9 surgical. Fourth Sunday, last year, 29 cases, 5 surgical; this year, cases, 11 surgical. With a decrease of one-third in the total number of cases, there was a decrease of one-half in th number of surgical cases.

Dr. Brown says there has also been a great decrease in the number of alcoholic patients, especially of the violent kind. It was not infrequently the case, when Sunday saloons were open, for each cell to hold two or three patients. Hospital attaches say the cells have not all been occupied since the Sunday saloons were closed.

CHOOL OVERRUN WITH APPLICANTS

arnegie Technical Receives 7200 Letters Before First Building Is Ready.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 3.—An astounding number of applications have already been made for admission to the new Carnegie Technical School, now in course of construction in this city. Although work on but one of the buildings is well under way, the number of applications for enrollment of would-be scholars has already reached 7200, with the opening of the school more than three months away.

The most remarkable part of this large number of applications is that every country on the face of the civilized world is represented by applicants. There are applications from all the South American countries, from all of Europe and Asia, and even Norway and Greenland have people who want to atttend the school. France and Germany, however, head the list, more than half of the would-be applicants being from these countries. Japan and Russia are also well represented, while the Chinese do not seem so anxious, only a half a dozen of the applicants being from that country.

The Philippines appear to be particularly anxious to enter the school, a large number of letters being from inhabitants of the islands. In addition to the letters from individuals in the Philippines application has been by Willis Sutherland, representing the commission which proposed to bring Filipino children here for education, for admission of 20 pupils. Mr. Sutherland was in Pittsburg during the week n an endeavor to close arrangements or the admission of these pupils, but was compelled to leave without a definite answer.

Owing to the enormous number of applications the trustees of the institute have decided to first care for applicants from Pittsburg and Western Pennsylvania. After they have been enrolled the applicants from other States in this country will be given consideration, then the Philippines, Cuba and Porto Rico, and afterwards the foreign countries. The school could be more than filled to its full capacity at the opening if all the applications could be accepted.

Only one building, the School for Applied Sciences, will be ready for occupancy when the term opens on Oct. 26. It is the desire of the trustees to immediately start both day and night sessions. No temporary quarters will be secured, but the buildings will be occupied just as rapidly as they are completed, and new pupils admitted throughout the year.

Most of the letters received are from persons between the ages of 21 and 26 years. It appears to be the desire of many to come here and complete their educations, the foreigners to learn the American methods. Many of the applicants are unable to speak or read English, which is one of the requirements necessary before they secure admission.

BIG STICK FOR GAMBLERS

Secretary Hitchcock to Bring About Reform at Hot Springs.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Secretary of the Interior Hitchcock is trying to find a way to reach the gamblers at Hot Springs and put them out of business at that place. He has given his word that the fraternity of easy money chances must get away from the Government reservation, which must be reserved in the integrity as a health esort.

This is all right as far as it goes. The Secretary can stop gambling on the Government reservation, but he can not keep it away from the vicinity, as the ional Government has no jurisdiction ide of the Government Park.

e Secretary is determined that the dal which has grown up about the onal Park because of the gambling itted by local authorities must stop e will take the matter up with the and city authorities with a view -operation with the Federal aules for the abolition of the gamg evil.

Regulations governing the use of the springs, which are under Government control, will be amended at once to reach the evil as far as possible.

The better element of citizens are in sympathy with the effort to put down the gambling evil. They say that it is the result of politics. Local officials are said to be under the influence of the gambling element.

IN SOCIETY

Notices of social events intended for publication in the Sunday Post-Dispatch should reach the Post-Dispatch office not later than noon of the Friday preceding.

Sagelbohm—Neusteter.

Miss Lillian Neusteter of St. Louis and Alexander Sagelbohm of Kansas City were married Thursday afternoon at the B'Nai Amoona Congregation. The bride was attended by Miss Lillian Neusteter, her cousin, and Miss Estelle Neusteter, sister of the bride as bridesmaids. The bridegroom had for his best man M. Hopper.

After the ceremony the bridal party returned to the home of the bride's parents, which was beautifully decorated with ferns and palms, where the reception took place. The bride wore white crepe de chine, en train, trimmed with point lace. Her tulle veil was held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms and a diamond pendant.

After a wedding tour to Washington and New York Mr. and Mrs. Sagelbohm will return to Kansas City, where they will make their home.

Clemmons—Uhrig.

At the home of Mrs. Steve Uhrig, 7373 Flora avenue, Maplewood, at 6 p. m., Tuesday, June 27, Miss Marie M. Uhrig and Nolan M. Clemmons were married by Rev. Stark. Mrs. Rose Schneddig, sister of the bride, acted as matron of honor, and Charles Uhrig, brother of the bride, served as groomsman.

Little Marie Schneddig, the bride's niece, was flower girl. The home was beautifully decorated in green and white. The bride wore a white silk gown, trimmed in Valenciennes. Mrs. Hoffman played the wedding march. The bride and groom departed on an extended wedding trip.

GOING TO IDENTIFY THOMAS IS BELIEF

Trio of Fulton Citizens Leave for London, Where Defaulter Is Supposed to Be.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., July 3.—From Fulton comes the information that three citizens of that place left there last Wednesday for London, England.

Ostensibly these gentlemen, who are "Babe" Moore, a well-known druggist; Joseph Maddox, a prominent business man, and a real estate dealer named Harris, are simply off on a pleasure trip.

People generally at Fulton, however, believe that their trip has something to do with the identification and future extradition of W. D. Thomas, the defaulting treasurer of the State Insane Asylum, at that place.

Each one of the trio is personally well acquainted with Thomas, and if the suspect in England is the Fulton man it would require only one look at him for them to fully identify him.

So far as can be ascertained, no steps have been as yet taken to secure requisition papers, although it is said here that one information, charging Thomas with embezzlement, has been filed by the Prosecuting Attorney for Callaway County.

SEEKS ORDER TO STOP GOVERNMENT

Counsel of Meat Packers Will Try to Have Restraint Put on the Prosecution.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 3.—Proceedings to stop or restrain the Government from prosecution of the packers, packing house officials, attorneys and corporations under the criminal indictments voted by the grand jury on Saturday will be asked by the packers' general counsel, John S. Miller. He says the Government, having invoked the jurisdiction of the Circuit Court in an equity proceedings for an injunction, should not in the same matter proceed criminally against the same parties.

"Such an action is in contemplation, but will hardly be presented in court before the close of the week," said Attorney Miller today. "The representatives of the Government should not pursue the beef men in two different ways. If they are guilty of violating the injunction they ought not at the same time be punished criminally."

GEN. WOOD HURRYING HOME

Philippine Commander on Way to Boston to Consult Specialist on Knee Trouble.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 3.—Gen. Leonard Wood is hastening to Boston to consult a specialist. The occasion of the soldier's hurried trip of 14,000 miles is carefully guarded as a secret except from the General's most intimate friends. Ostensibly he is in the United States on business, but the "business" is said to have reference to a disability of the knee, which may have first manifested itself while the General was in Cuba at the head of the Rough Riders, Roosevelt's regiment.

Exertion in the Philippines aggravated what at first was a slight trouble, and a few months ago Gen. Wood, himself a doctor and surgeon, realized that there was danger of the malady developing into a serious ailment. One of his medical friends in Boston is a specialist in hip and knee diseases, and after putting departmental matters in order, Gen. Wood sailed for home for a consultation.

Accompanying the soldier are Mrs. Leonard Wood and Capt. H. Dorey of the Fourth Infantry, aid to the General.

BEATEN BY FOOTPADS

Georgia Merchant Crippled and Robbed While Calling for Help to Passing Crowd.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 3.—H. P. Joslyn, 45 years old, of Atlanta, Ga., is in Bellevue Hospital so badly injured by footpads that he may die. Even in the event of his recovery, the physicians say, he will probably be a lifelong cripple, as his spine was injured by the terrible beating he received. For audacity this holdup has seldom been exceeded and the police have done their utmost to keep it from being made public, while they are exerting all their energies to capture the highwayman.

Mr. Joslyn, a prosperous merchant, came to this city with his wife last Thursday, to spend a week in sightseeing. While they were looking at a show window at Fourth avenue and Twenty-fourth street, with crowds passing, two men attacked him, one using a club and the other his fists. Then they closed in on him and began rifling his pockets and endeavored to snatch a diamond pin from his scarf.

All this time Mr. Joslyn was screaming for help, but no policeman in sight. Finally, becoming alarmed at Mr. Joslyn's screams, the thugs ran down Fourth avenue. Weak and trembling, Mr. Joslyn started across the street to a drug store. He barely reached the store before he became unconscious and an ambulance took him to Bellevue Hospital.

St. Louis has more Post-Dispatch readers every day than it has homes. "First in everything."

TEACHER BECOMES BRIDE.

East St. Louis Public Schools Lose Miss Mabel Shoup.

Although Miss Mabel Shoup of Carlyle, Ill., has been appointed a teacher in the East St. Louis public schools, her place will have to be filled by another next term, because she became the bride of Archie Dean of East St. Louis Monday afternoon, their marriage being a surprise to all their friends. The ceremony took place at her home in Carlyle.

The girl has taught school in East St. Louis for the past two years, and during that time young Dean, who is now in the real estate business, but was formerly clerk of the Board of Election Commissioners, has been paying her attentions. It was not known, however, that they were engaged, and at the close of the school term last month Miss Shoup accepted reappointment as a teacher. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Shoup.

After the ceremony the couple returned to East St. Louis, where the bride groom had prepared a pretty home at Eighteenth street and Baugh avenue.

KISSES AND HUGS SAVE WHEAT CROP

Kansas Farmer's Daughter Gives Them as Prizes to Man Doing Best Day's Work.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TOPEKA, Kan., July 3.—Kisses and hugs bestowed by a pretty girl saved her father's wheat crop valued at $3000 from ruin in Saline County last week. The kisses and hugs were given as prizes by Mabel Huston, the pretty 18-year-old daughter of S. H. Huston, a wheat farmer, to the men whom the farmer hired to care for his wheat. Men to work in the harvest field have been scarcer in Kansas this year than for many seasons, and therefore when the farmers of Central Kansas received word from the Government weather offices on Friday that a heavy rain was expected that night they exerted themselves to save their wheat. All wheat which would remain unshocked when the rain came would be damaged.

The greater part of the Huston wheat was unshocked when the farmer and the dozen men who were helping him, went into the field on Friday. Mr. Huston was badly worried over the Government predictions and tried to impress on the men the necessity for hurrying through with their work. The laborers, many of whom had been imported for the season from other States, gave little heed to the worry of the farmer. Finally Miss Huston went into the field with the morning drink of buttermilk for the men and when they had gathered about her said:

"I have decided to offer prizes to the men who do the best work today. We must save this crop of wheat or I can't return to school this fall. Now to the man who shocks the most wheat today I will give three kisses and a hug, and to the man who is second I will give two kisses and the third man shall have a hug. Papa shall be the judge."

The effect on the men was electrifying. They worked harder than any harvest hands ever seen in that county. The contest was very close throughout the day between Fred Norton, the son of a neighbor of the Hustons, and two Eastern men who came here for the harvest. When the last bundle of wheat had been shocked and was safe from the rain which soon followed, it was found that Norton had won the prize. The second and third prizes were also bestowed on their winners by the young lady in front of the assemblage of harvesters.

ELECTION CONTESTS TRIALS

East St. Louis Decisions to Be Made Wednesday.

East St. Louis election contests will be decided Wednesday. Those for the offices of Treasurer and City Clerk will be heard in the Circuit Court, and those for Aldermen in the City Council, both bodies being in session at the same time. Judge Perrin will be on the bench in the court trial.

The contestants are Henry Albrecht vs. Chas. B. Goedde, Treasurer; Martin Flynn vs. Thos. J. Williams, City Clerk; Thos. Whalen vs. Gus Kolb, Alderman of Third Ward; Frank Holten vs. Conrad Reeb, Alderman, Fifth Ward; Geo. Ruff vs. L. C. Adams, Alderman, Sixth Ward; M. J. Buckley vs. Frank Brown, Alderman, Seventh Ward.

Of the candidates who were declared defeated in the spring elections, Albrecht, Flynn and Buckley are of the Citizens' party; Whalen, Holten and Ruff are of the Independent Municipal party. Holten and Reeb are brothers-in-law.

Stepped to Death Before Car.

James Diller, aged 45, said to live at Percy, Ill., stepped in front of an East St. Louis Suburban car near Priester's Park Sunday and was instantly killed, the Coroner's jury returning a verdict of accidental death at the inquest held in Ruddle's saloon near the scene of the accident.

OBJECT TO R. R. TRACKS.

Hearing to Be Given to Protest in East St. Louis.

A special meeting of the Street and Alley Committee of the East St. Louis City Council will be held Monday afternoon in the City Hall for the purpose of conferring with the officials of the St. Louis and Northeastern Electric Railway Company, also known as the McKinley Syndicate, which is seeking a franchise for their street railway through East St. Louis streets, and for hearing the objections of residents on College and Illinois avenues and Tenth street, who protest against the granting of the franchise to lay tracks along those streets, representing that by using that route the railway would pass in front of the school buildings, and that they believe it was the intention of the street car company to haul coal and freight over the road. They object to this and say it will decrease the value of real estate in that residence district.

The company now has in operation about 80 miles of road between Decatur, Ill., and East St. Louis, and have the track graded to within nine miles of East St. Louis, running through Edwardsville. When completed it will make a direct line by street car from East St. Louis to Decatur, Springfield, Bloomington and Jacksonville, making East St. Louis the terminus of 350 miles of tracks running to different sections of the State.

MARRIAGE FEE TOO HIGH.

Couple Refuse to Pay $1.50 for License and Depart.

In Illinois trouble is being had in getting accustomed to the working of the new marriage law, passed by the last Legislature and in effect since Saturday. One change was the elevation of prices for marriage licenses from $1 to $1.50.

Charles D. Greggs of Cedar Rapids, Io., and Miss Stella Greenwald of Edwardsville, Ill., refused to buy at the advanced price. They said they would go back to Edwardsville for theirs and left Belleville.

J. P. Steel and Miss Mary Cowan of Montgomery County, Missouri, were refused a license when they admitted that they were first cousins. They said they would go to Paducah, Ky.

GOT ALL MURDERERS.

East St. Louis Police' Commended in Chief's Report.

The annual report of Chief of Police George O. Purdy of East St. Louis, filed with the City Council Monday, shows that 14 murders were committed in East St. Louis during the 12 months just ended—a decrease of 18 from the year previous. The murderer in each case was captured.

The total number of arrests was 6707; value of stolen property recovered, $13,180; persons given hours to leave the city, 1201; fugitives from justice arrested, 40; persons arrested for violating penitentiary parole, 18; lodgers accommodated at police stations, 577; runaway boys restored to parents, six.

The report recommends that the city establish a rogues' gallery and that it purchase a case for filing the Bertillon records of prisoners and persons arrested. The Chief particularly commends the work of the detective department and insists upon its value to the city.

STEADY PRICES ON LOCAL STOCKS

Session Monday Showed Only Moderated Demand, With Few Changes.

By the time the brokers of the St. Louis Stock Exchange had climbed to the top floor of the building they had little animation, either to trade in stocks and bonds or to indulge in the customary celebration of the coming holiday. Bidding was much of a perfunctory matter, and the firecracker display had an air of ennui which was probably caused by the exertion of climbing the stairs while the elevator was taking a holiday.

Prices showed no material change from Saturday, and the range of prices on the few sales was small.

ACTIVE MARKET ADVANCES PRICES

Early Wall Street Trading Showed Better Demand Than Expected.

NEW YORK, July 3.—The opening of the market this morning was considerable of a surprise, not particularly on account of the advance in prices, but on account of the activity, which was unusual for a session sandwiched in between two holidays.

Many of the brokers had left the city Saturday to be gone until Wednesday, and a considerable amount of business was not looked for, but the opening trading showed a strong bullish sentiment and plenty of orders for early execution.

Prices all along the line showed marked advance and the predictions of last week that there would be a good demand for standard stocks for the reimbursement of July funds showed that it was very nearly correct by the early prices.

With the banking interests decidedly in favor of a strong stock market and the large amount of July interest payments, stocks were strongly held and the class of the buying was as good as was the volume.

London showed a firmness on Americans, which was another aid to the strength of the initial trading.

The opening prices and changes from Saturday's close were as follows: Atchison, 84½, advance ¼; B. & O. 114¼, advance ⅜; Brooklyn 72⅛, advance ⅜; Erie 46⅜, advance ⅛; Metropolitan 128, advance ¼; New York Central 146, advance 1; Pennsylvania 141⅜, advance ½; Reading 100½, advance ½; Rock Island 30⅝, advance ¾; Southern Pacific 65, advance ⅝; Union Pacific 128⅜, advance ⅞; Steel 32⅛, advance ⅜; Steel preferred 99⅞, advance ⅝.

The best showing in the point of strength of activity was made by the Union Pacific, the trunk lines and the local tractions. St. Paul, Southern Pacific, Missouri Pacific, some of the southern stocks and the United States Steel stocks were amongst those that were less active. Gains of a point or more were fairly general. In Tennessee Coal and Iron a rise reached 2½. Erie and Union Pacific preferred 1¾. Metropolitan Street Railway 2 and Northwestern 3. St. Paul, L. & N., United States Steel and Sugar were brought forward a point, but there was a bulge in the general demand. Resultant price recessions, however, were insignificant. Republic Steel preferred rose 2¼ and Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis, Chicago Terminal preferred, Virginia Iron and United Railway Investment. The losses were Chicago Terminal 1, Enameling 1½ and the preferred 2. Bonds were firm at noon.

Exposition

Now open for the summer. Interesting because it demonstrates the progress made by that wonderful country—the Pacific Northwest. Interesting, too, because it affords a chance to see, cheaply and satisfactorily, the many places of interest in our Western States.

Go via Rock Island System and stop off in Colorado—visit Salt Lake City—Yellowstone National Park—and California. Round-trip rate from St. Louis $52.50, going and returning direct; slightly more to go via California in one direction. Cheap rates for side rides to every nearby point of attraction. Very low to Alaska also.

The Rock Island has three routes—through New Mexico, through Colorado or via St. Paul and Minneapolis.

THE ADVENTURES OF SHERLOCK HOLMES

THE GREEK INTERPRETER.

By SIR A. CONAN DOYLE.

COMPLETE IN THREE CHAPTERS.

CHAPTER I.

DURING my long and intimate acquaintance with Mr. Sherlock Holmes I had never heard him refer to his relatives, and hardly ever to his own early life. This reticence upon his part had increased the somewhat inhuman effect which he produced upon me, until sometimes I found myself regarding him as an isolated phenomenon, a brain without a heart, as deficient in human sympathy as he was pre-eminent in intelligence. His aversion to women and his disinclination to form new friendships were both typical of his unemotional character, but not more so than his complete suppression of every reference to his own people. I had come to believe that he was an orphan with no relatives living; but one day, to my very great surprise, he began to talk to me about his brother.

It was after tea on a summer evening, and the conversation, which had roamed in a desultory, spasmodic fashion from golf clubs to the causes of the change in the obliquity of the ecliptic, came round at last to the question of atavism and hereditary aptitudes. The point under discussion was, how far any singular gift in an individual was due to his ancestry and how far to his own early training.

"In your own case," said I, "from all that you have told me, it seems obvious that your faculty of observation and your peculiar facility for deduction are due to your own systematic training."

"To some extent," he answered, thoughtfully. "My ancestors were country squires, who appear to have led much the same life as is natural to their class. But, none the less, my turn that way is in my veins, and may have come with my grandmother, who was the sister of Vernet, the French artist. Art in the blood is liable to take the strangest forms."

"But how do you know that it is hereditary?"

"Because my brother Mycroft possesses it in a larger degree than I do."

This was news to me indeed. If there were another man with such singular powers in England, how was it that neither police nor public had heard of him? I put the question, with a hint that it was my companion's modesty which made him acknowledge his brother as his superior. Holmes laughed at my suggestion.

"My dear Watson," said he, "I cannot agree with those who rank modesty among the virtues. To the logician all things should be seen exactly as they are, and to underestimate one's self is as much a departure from truth as to exaggerate one's own powers. When I say, therefore, that Mycroft has better powers of observation than I, you may take it that I am speaking the exact and literal truth."

"Is he your junior?"

"Seven years my senior."

"How comes it that he is unknown?"

"Oh, he is very well known in his own circle."

"Where, then?"

"Well, in the Diogenes Club, for example."

I had never heard of the institution, and my face must have proclaimed as much, for Sherlock Holmes pulled out his watch.

"The Diogenes Club is the queerest club in London, and Mycroft one of the queerest men. He's always there from quarter to five to twenty to eight. It's now six, so if you care for a stroll this beautiful evening I shall be very happy to introduce you to two curiosities."

Five minutes later we were in the street, walking toward Regent's Circus.

"You wonder," said my companion, "why it is that Mycroft does not use his powers for detective work. He is incapable of it."

"But I thought you said"——

"I said that he was my superior in observation and deduction. If the art of the detective began and ended in reasoning from an arm-chair, my brother would be the greatest criminal agent that ever lived. But he has no ambition and no energy. He will not even go out of his way to verify his own solutions, and would rather be considered wrong than take the trouble to prove himself right. Again and again I have taken a problem to him, and have received an explanation which has afterward proved to be the correct one. And yet he was absolutely incapable of working out the practical points which must be gone into before a case could be laid before a judge or jury."

"It is not his profession, then?"

"By no means. What is to me a means of livelihood is to him the merest hobby of a dilettante. He has an extraordinary faculty for figures, and audits the books in some of the Government departments. Mycroft lodges in Pall Mall, and he walks round the corner into Whitehall every morning and back every evening. From year's end to year's end he takes no other exercise, and is seen nowhere else, except only in the Diogenes Club, which is just opposite his rooms."

"I can not recall the name."

"Very likely not. There are many men in London, you know, who, some from shyness, some from misanthropy, have no wish for the company of their fellows. Yet they are not averse to comfortable chairs and the latest periodicals. It is for the convenience of these that the Diogenes Club was started, and it now contains the most unsociable and unclubable men in town. No member is permitted to take the least notice of any other one. Save in the Strangers' Room, no talking is, under any circumstances, allowed, and three offenses, if brought to the notice of the committee, render the talker liable to expulsion. My brother was one of the founders, and I have myself found it a very soothing atmosphere."

We had reached Pall Mall as we talked, and were walking down it from St. James' end. Sherlock Holmes stopped at a door some little distance from the Carlton, and, cautioning me not to speak, he led the way into the hall. Through the glass paneling I caught a glimpse of a large and luxurious room, in which a considerable number of men were sitting about and reading papers, each in his own little nook. Holmes showed me into a small chamber which looked out into Pall Mall, and then, leaving me for a minute, he came back with a companion whom I knew could only be his brother.

Mycroft Holmes was a much larger and stouter man than Sherlock. His body was absolutely corpulent, but his face, though massive, had preserved something of the sharpness of expression which was so remarkable in that of his brother. His eyes, which were of a peculiarly light, watery gray, seemed to always retain that far-away, introspective look which I had only observed in Sherlock's when he was exerting his full powers.

"I am glad to meet you sir," said he putting out a broad aflt hand like the flipper of a seal. "I hear of Sherlock everywhere since you became his chronicler. By the way, Sherlock, I expected to see you round last week, to consult me over that Manor House case. I thought you might be a little out of your depth."

"No, I solved it," said my friend, smiling.

"It was Adams, of course?"

"Yes, it was Adams."

"I was sure of it from the first." The two sat down together in the bow window of the club. "To any one who wishes to study mankind this is the spot," said Mycroft. "Look at the magnificent types! Look at these two men who are coming toward us, for example."

"The billiard-marker and the other?"

"Precisely. What do you make of the other?"

The two men stopped opposite the window. Some chalk marks over the waistcoat pocket were the only signs of billiards which I could see in one of them. The other was a very small, dark fellow, with his hat pushed back and several packages under his arm.

"An old soldier, I perceive," said Sherlock.

"And very recently discharged," remarked the brother.

"Served in India, I see."

"And a non-commissioned officer."

"Royal Artillery, I fancy," said Sherlock.

"And a widower."

"But with a child."

"Children, my dear boy, children."

"Come," said I, laughing, this is a little too much."

"Surely" answered Holmes, "it is not hard to say that a man with that bearing, expression of authority and sunbaked skin, is a soldier, is more than a private, and is not long from India."

"That he has not left the service long is shown by his still wearing his ammunition boots as they are called," observed Mycroft.

"He had not the cavalry stride, yet he wore his hat on one side, as is shown by the lighter skin on that side of his brow. His weight is against his being a sapper. He is in the artillery."

"Then, of course, his complete mourning shows that he has lost some one very dear. The fact that he is doing his own shopping looks as though it were his wife. He has been buying things for children, you perceive. There is a rattle, which shows that one of them is very young. The wife probably died in childbed. The fact that he has a picturebook under his arm shows that there is another child to be thought of."

I began to understand what my friend meant when he said that his brother possessed even keener faculties than he did himself. He glanced across at me and smiled. Mycroft took snuff from a tortoise-shell box, and brushed away the wandering grains from his coat front with a large red silk handkerchief.

"By the way, Sherlock," said he, "I have had something quite after your own heart—a most singular problem—submitted to my judgment. I really had not the energy to follow it up save in a very incomplete fashion, but it gave me a basis for some pleasing speculations. If you would care to hear the facts"——

"My dear Mycroft, I should be delighted."

The brother scribbled a note upon the leaf of his pocketbook and, ringing the bell, he handed it to the waiter.

"I have asked Mr. Melas to step across," said he. "He lodges on the floor above me, and I have some slight acquaintance with him, which led him to come to me in his perplexity. Mr. Melas is a Greek by extraction, and he is a remarkable linguist. He earns his living partly as an interpreter in the law courts and partly by acting as guide to any wealthy Orientals who may visit the Northumberland avenue hotels. I think I will leave him to tell his very remarkable experience in his own fashion."

A few minutes later we were joined by a short, stout man, whose olive face and coal-black hair proclaimed his Southern origin, though his speech was that of an educated Englishman. He shook hands eagerly with Sherlock Holmes, and his dark eyes sparkled with pleasure when he understood that the specialist was anxious to hear his story.

"I do not believe that the police credit me—on my word, I do not," said he in a wailing voice. "Just because they have never heard of it before they think that such a thing cannot be. But I know that I shall never be easy in my mind until I know what has become of my poor man with the sticking plaster upon his face."

"I am all attention," said Sherlock Holmes.

"This is Wednesday evening," said Mr. Melas. "Well, then, it was on Monday night—only two days ago, you understand—that all this happened. I am an interpreter, as perhaps my neighbor there has told you. I interpret all languages—or nearly all—but as I am a Greek by birth and with a Grecian name, it is with that particular tongue that I am principally associated. For many years I have been the chief Greek interpreter in London, and my name is very well known in the hotels.

"It happens not infrequently that I am sent for at strange hours by foreigners who get into difficulties, or by travelers who arrive late and wish my services. I was not surprised, therefore, on Monday night, when a Mr. Latimer, a very fashionably dressed young man, came up to my rooms and asked me to accompany him in a cab which was waiting at the door. A Greek friend had come to see him upon business, he said, and as he could speak nothing but his own tongue, the services of an interpreter were indispensable. He gave me to understand that his house was some little distance off, in Kensington, and he seemed to be a great hurry, bustling me rapidly into the cab when he had descended to the street.

"I say into the cab, but I soon became doubtful as to whether it was not a carriage in which I found myself. It was certainly more roomy than the ordinary four-wheeled disgrace to London, and the fittings, though frayed, were of rich quality. Mr. Latimer seated himself opposite to me and we started off through Charing Cross and up the Shaftesbury avenue. We had come out upon Oxford street and I had ventured some remark as to this being a roundabout way to Kensington, when my words were arrested by the extraordinary conduct of my companion.

NEW YORK EDITORIAL OPINION

Beef Trust Indictments—The Federal Treasury Deficit and the Necessity for Currency Legislation.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 3.—The World says of the Beef Trust indictments: "By the indictment at Chicago of five beef packing corporations and 17 of the leading officials a thorough test of the efficiency of the Sherman anti-trust law is assured.

"In this case no fine-spun distinctions have been drawn between corporate and personal guilt. In spite of President Roosevelt's theories in the Paul Morton case the grand jury is convinced that corporations act through their owners and agents.

"By this time Mr. Roosevelt must realize how he has affronted public opinion and common sense by shielding the Santa Fe officials. Fortunately no beef packer is a member of his Cabinet and can boast of his personal friendship."

The announcement that the peace plenipotentiaries will meet in Washington in August makes it unnecessary to add the suggestion that they will have some hot discussions.—The Press.

"We cannot exactly congratulate the Secretary of the Treasury on the accuracy of his calculations," says the Times. "The deficit for the year that closed with June is in round numbers $24,000,000, and this $6,000,000 more than he had reckoned it would be.

"It is a queer sort of assurance that the secretary feels it necessary to give to the public. He says that 'The favorable showing for June has been in no degree the result of manipulation. Claims have been audited with the same rapidity and paid as promptly as ever.' We certainly never should asked of the Treasury Department a declaration of this sort, and we wonder what impelled the honorable Secretary to volunteer it."

It is much to be hoped that in bringing these offenders (Gaynor and Green) to trial and punishment, the United States will be less dilatory than Canada has been in surrendering. Otherwise their offense, already obscure in the public mind, will be utterly forgotten.—The Sun.

Speaking of the United States Treasury situation, the Herald says: "It manifestly would be dangerous to go on with a constantly increasing excess of outgo over the income. Hence it is necessary either to cut down expenses or increase the receipts. As there is every prospect that the expenditures will grow larger, it is plain that legislation to increase the revenue is inevitable. The last Congress successfully dodged all currency legislation and refused to consider revision of the tariff, but the new Congress cannot evade the issue. Fortunately, the Treasury balance, including the $68,000,000 it has on deposit with the banks, is sufficient to meet intervening demands, but legislation cannot be deferred, and, fortunately, the country is so prosperous that no legitimate interest should be injured by the changes."

Big Cities Are Inland.

Nearly all the world's great cities—Paris, Berlin, St. Petersburg, Vienna, Madrid and others—are far inland. Even London, the nearest to deep water of all of Europe's great capitals, is over 60 miles distant from the sea. New York is the only city of commanding importance in any civilized country which is in sight of the ocean, says Leslie's Weekly. Chicago feels that some time it will have the same pre-eminence in the United States that Berlin has in Germany or St. Petersburg in Russia. It is growing faster than New York, has several suburbs which it expects to absorb within the next five or ten years, and figures that it will pass New York by 1950. Ten or fifteen years prior to that date New York will have passed London.

Good Authority.

"Who was the originator of the folding bed?" said the furniture man.

"Lazarus," replied his son. "History says that 'he folded' his bed and walked away.'"—Detroit Free Press.

Deceptive.

From Puck.

Bibbs: You wouldn't think Seymour's son had been through college to hear him talk! would you?

Gibbs: No; I'd never suspect it. He must have taken the regular course and graduated.

WITH THE FUNNY MAN

Help!

"Don't you think in this world that the strong should help the weak?" asked the thin boarder.

"I certainly do," replied the lady at the head of the table.

"Don't you consider yourself strong, madam?"

"I certainly do."

"Well, will you please help the coffee?"—Yonkers Statesman.

Beginning Early.

"Did you enjoy yourself at the party, Bessie?" asked her mamma.

"I never saw such a stupid lot of people, mamma!" replied the little girl. "If there hadn't been a looking-glass in the room, I wouldn't have enjoyed myself at all!"—Yonkers Statesman.

All Upset.

Patience: I understand young Huggins took you out in his automobile?

Patrice: He did.

Patience: How did he behave?

Patrice: Oh, he and the machine both behaved scandalously! Why, I never felt so upset in my life!—Yonkers Statesman.

Services Needed at Home.

She: Now don't go on so, dear.. I've been out trying to heal a breach between two neighbors.

He: Well, madam, it would be more to your credit if you stayed at home and gave a little attention to my breeches!—Yonkers Statesman.

She: What is the horse saying 'neigh! neigh!' for?

He: O, I suppose the poor animal is not pleased with the style of sunbonnet it is wearing!—Yonkers Statesman.

Hard to Manage.

Bacon: I see in Chicago a man has to get a license when he gets married or when he buys an automobile.

Egbert: And I suppose it's a safe bet that he can't manage what he gets a license for.—Yonkers Statesman.

Changed His Mind.

"What did you think when the mule kicked you, Sam?"

"Well, sah, I thought at firs' it was m' wife, but when I found I was a-goin' away from home I knew different, sah!"

Not Too Quick to Suit Him.

Miss Sue Brette: How do you like me as Camille?

Foote Lighte: Out of sight!

"Do you think I die too soon?"

"No, no, not a bit too soon!"

Two Points in View.

"Don't you think it a shame for the Vermont authorities to put Mrs. Rogers out of the world?" asked the sympathetic woman.

"I certainly do," replied the theatrical manager; "just think what a hit she'd make on the stage!"—Yonkers Statesman.

Life Preserver Season.

Church: The season is approaching when the authorities will look over the life preservers on the excursion boats!"

Gotham: Why, they've been overlooking them for some time."—Yonkers Statesman.

Fond of Cards.

"And are yer fond of cards, Mrs. Murphy?"

"Sure I'm not, but the goat is. Didn't he eat up two hull packs las' week?"—Yonkers Statesman.

Miss Bellard's Inspiration

By W. D. HOWELLS.

Here is a situation that mig occur in the experience of a American girl and her lover. M Howells extricates his heroi from her predicament by mea of a wonderful "inspiration and makes a delightful story o of this summer episode. But would be interesting to know the average girl of Miss Bellar independent turn of mind wou break her engagement and then renew it in just this fashion.

The entrance of Mr. and Mrs. Mevison into the story was the cause of it all—an unhappy, ill mated couple such as migi cloud the romance of any pair lovers nowadays. They cam near spoiling things for Miss Be lard—but not quite, thanks her "inspiration." The review ers seem to be enjoying this n novel by Mr. Howells.

HOW TO CHECK MONOPOLY.

The most effective means of enforcing the Federal anti-trust law is embodied in the indictment of 17 packers connected with the Beef Trust and of five companies for conspiracy. This is a notable step in the effort to restrain monopoly.

When the men who manage the law-breaking corporations are punished the corporations will be good. When it is understood that not only will the corporations be fined for violations of law, but the men who actually do the criminal work will be imprisoned or fined or both, the law will be respected in corporation offices.

We have enough laws to protect the public from monopoly oppression. What we need is law enforcement.

BOUNDING WOMAN'S SPHERE.

There has been so much discussion as to the limits of "woman's sphere," and a multitude of counselors has so obscured wisdom that it is refreshing and reassuring to have a judicial decision concerning the matter.

The jurist who has stepped into the breach is Judge Schwartz of Norristown, Pa. While he has not attempted so grave a matter as defining the uttermost limits of the sphere of woman, he has made bold to declare in emphatic terms that, whatsoever else she may or may not have domain over, undisputed mistress of her own kitchen, and o man—not even her husband—can impose upon her there or question her authority opunity. As he says, in chaste, if not courtuage, "she is boss."

beginning gives us hope to believe that woman's sphere may yet be clearly defined, just as geographers, after long study, were finally able to make a map of Greenland and its icy mountains, the exact boundaries of which were unknown for years. Judge Schwartz has set the stakes and started the line. Who will be the next able jurist to work on the survey?

One of the worst nuisances incident to a barbarous celebration of the Fourth is the laying of explosives on the street railway tracks. Some of the explosives used in this way on last year's Fourth actually lifted the wheels. There is no reason why street car passengers should be subjected to such annoyance. It should be tolerated no longer.

AN INSTRUCTIVE HUMAN DOCUMENT.

An interesting and instructive human document was presented to the public in the Sunday Post-Dispatch's story of the beginning and growth of Barr's, the great department store, the control of which was sold by the venerable William Barr to a corporation controlled by George M. Wright, the present president; Murray Carleton and Thomas H. McKittrick. We call it a human document because the history of the growth and uninterrupted success of the store is a revelation of the character and methods of the men who directed its business.

Beginning in a small storeroom of a two-story building on Third and Walnut streets, it has expanded to the magnificent building covering the greater part of a block on Sixth and Olive streets—from 5000 square feet to 220,000 square feet of area, from an old-fashioned dry goods store to a vast, up-to-date department store, capable of supplying nearly every human need.

This great business establishment reflects the character and the methods of the men who built it up by years of thought and toil. These men present a combination of sound judgment and courageous initiative, of conservatism and progressiveness, governed by the principle of honest dealing. Chief among them was Mr. William Barr, who has been identified with the business from its small beginning. Mr. Barr is more than an able and successful merchant—he is a liberal, intelligent, philanthropic man who has earned the respect and affection of all his associates. Of like character was the late Joseph Frankin, who was for many years the manager of the store. A notable fact in connection with Barr's is that the present managers and most of the heads of departments are men who have grown up in the business. Its success emphasizes the wisdom of the policy of retaining and promoting capable and faithful employes.

The history of a successful business conducted upon the sound principles which have characterized Barr's is worthy of the study of young business men. It points the way to enduring success.

Is the Fourth the Wrong Date?—The researches of Prof. John Franklin Jameson, who is at the head of the history department of Mr. Rockefeller's university, have put a damper on American patriotism. All these years we have been celebrating the wrong Independence Day, and tomorrow we shall repeat our blunder. The Fourth of July really comes on August 18, the Declaration of Independence not having been "drawn up and formulated" until 45 days after July 2. August is a month of intense heat; would it not be better to postpone our celebration indefinitely than to get so warm? The "glorious 18th!" How could we speak or write of a "glorious 18th"?

THE RAILWAYS AND THE CANAL.

It is said that President Roosevelt and Secretary Taft suspect that railway interests have been active in Panama matters, and perhaps procured the Wallace fiasco.

It is not unlikely. The canal would probably have been opened ere this had not the Pacific roads established a lobby in Washington a quarter of a century ago. Senator Morgan of Alabama was made the target of ridicule and abuse for years because of his earnest advocacy of an isthmian waterway, and his efforts were brought to naught by this sinister influence.

That a Pacific railroad lobby "fixed" things at Bogota is freely charged. The Colombian Congress was influenced to reject the canal treaty proposed and this led to the Panama secession and the final organization of the Panama commission.

It is very difficult to achieve any public object which is opposed by powerful private interests. The Panama canal is no exception.

"SPOON-BILL" IDIOTS.

From the London Telegraph.

The late Prof. Laycock of Edinburgh University used to divide idiots into two classes—poverty idiots and luxury idiots. The former were characterized by physical deformity and the latter by refined and delicate configuration, small heads and great prominence of the central region of the face. The luxury idiots, whom he traced to indolence and self-indulgence through many generations with breeding in-and-in, he called also "spoon-bill" idiots, and used to point out that they were of the type represented as aristocratic noodles. There was less breeding in-and-in among the upper classes than there used to be, but he himself did not doubt that exemption for a number of generations from any participation in the struggle for existence, with high feeding and effeminacy, tended to induce mental weakness of a special type.

JOB WORTH THE GETTING.

From the Boston Herald.

The Speakership of the House of Commons is a good job. With its salary of $25,000 a year it carries the use of a magnificent residence in the palace of Westminster, overlooking the Thames, and various attractive allowances, perquisites and prerogatives. And when the holder retires, or is retired, he drops into a comfortable pension of $20,000 a year for the remainder of his life and a peerage. William Gully, the Speaker who has just retired—a grandson, by the way, of a boxing expert, bookmaker and Derby winner celebrated in his day—now enters the enjoyment of these pleasant things. They treat their ex-statesmen more generously over there than we do ours.

OUR GINSENG IN CHINA.

From a report by United States Consul Cloud, Hangchau.

Chinese merchants when questioned as to the real difference between the wild root from Kirin and the cultivated variety from the United States admit that the difference is mostly imaginary, but that since the Manchurian ginseng comes from the Emperor's mother country and from the same soil out of which he, the Son of Heaven, sprang, the Chinese regard it as infinitely more efficacious as a "nourishing" medicine and as a "life-giving remedy" than ginseng from any other part of the world could possibly be.

"Foreign ginseng" (American) is more easily crumbled than the Manchurian, which is very hard, semi-transparent, and so shaped as to resemble the Chinese character for man, the root being forked. The flintiness and transparency of the root are supposed to add to its medicinal properties.

The strange form of the root, so like the human body, renders it more valuable in the eyes of the Chinese. This superstition is largely responsible for the absurdly high price of Manchurian ginseng.

No greater quantity of any medicine that sells for $205 or $280 an ounce can be sold in China, where the amount of money per capita is so small. But as ginseng is looked upon by the Chinese as the one and only great cure-all, they are not so conscientious as to the brand of the root they take, so long as they get ginseng.

So it is that they turn to what they call "foreign ginseng" (the American) as cheaper.

THE KISS COMPULSORY.

By J. CAMPBELL CORY, a Post-Dispatch Cartoonist.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Peddlers From Illinois.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

As a merchant and taxpayer I have a complaint to make. I would like to know if the police department is asleep or what ails them. Do they not see those peddlers from Illinois, pretending to be farmers, peddling creamery butter, eggs, potatoes, cheese, chickens, etc., from house to house doing injury to the St. Louis merchants and peddlers who have to pay wagon and merchant license, taxes, etc. These Illinois hucksters have the same privileges and do not pay any revenue to the State. In Illinois the police are wide awake; when a Missourian with a wagon lands there without a license to the jail he must go. The Illinois Legislature killed our third bridge bill, being afraid that we might derive benefits from a third bridge; so let us wake up and enforce the law on them. If the police department can not attend to this what is the matter with the militia? L. W. B.

Defense of the Abused.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Being an observer, I want to say a few words in defense of the street-car men, as I see they are censured for every trivial matter. Some people are professional kickers and even kick when they are asked for their fare.

The man who commands thousands of dollars has the street-car men's thanks; he gets on, hands the conductor a 5-cent piece and not $5.

If you don't want to be sized up as a cheap guy, don't get on the car and edge your way up to the front of the car and hand the conductor $1 when you have a nickel in your pocket.

They are an honorable set of men. The company employs only men who can prove themselves such. You may say they err from the path of duty; I'll venture to say there are not as many street-car men err as there are bankers. Treat them as you wish to be treated. AN OBSERVER.

Cass Avenue Loafers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I am very much pleased some one called attention, through you paper, to those all-night loafers hanging around on Cass avenue, for they certainly are a nuisance. We have enough noise from wagons and cars passing by, but nothing to compare with the noise these loafers see fit to make at any time during the night, regardless of other people's comfort.

Pity the poor mother that reared such brats.

A RESIDENT OF THAT NEIGHBORHOOD.

Against the Chinese.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I hope the American people and especially the working men will raise such a storm of protest against any relaxation of the laws governing the admission of Chinese to the United States that the President and many Presidents to follow will see that in furthering such a measure, they sign the death warrant of themselves and their party. Let us make them tighten the immigration laws, not loosen them. I say let us make them do it, for we can rule if we will. Now set up a roar that will be understood in Washington, and let them know that we mean to put a stop to the admission of cheap labor of any kind.

THREE GENERATIONS OF REPUBLICANS.

Dangerous Firearms.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Is it not forbidden here in St. Louis to sell dangerous arms for the Fourth of July? If so, there is little heed paid to it. Out here on Grand avenue, near the Water Tower, pistols, revolvers, cannon, etc., are openly advertised for sale, and if the boys get hold of them there is another day of terror coming.

ANXIOUS MOTHER.

LOVE IN MATRIMONY

READERS of the Post-Dispatch continue to take the side of Paul Hervieu, the French poet, dramatist and commissioner to reform French marriage laws. He believes that candidates for matrimony should be obligated by the officials empowered to marry them to love each other. It is argued that the insistence of the State on this obligation as a preliminary to matrimony would check divorce.

What do you think?

Love Is the Bond.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I desire to say that I heartily agree with Monsieur Paul Hervieu that love should be an obligation in a legal marriage, for without love there can be no marriage. There are men and women who barter their souls for money by going through a ceremony of law made by man and call it marriage. I call it perjury and deception. No words pronounced by a preacher or judge makes marriage. It only binds together two that are looking for trouble, and it only takes time to prove (unless they have love in their souls) that they will find what they are looking for. I respect the marriage laws, but I believe that those who love right and are honest and honorable only require that law to show they are law-abiding. If a man don't love me a marriage certificate won't make him love me and if I love a man I am going to love him as long as he is lovable, whether I am married to him or not. In many cases a marriage certificate is just the same as a bill of purchase—just the same as if I buy a black slave and say "here, I have the papers to show you belong to me as long as an iota of strength or breath of life is in you—you must serve and obey me."

I like the ceremony performed at our Spiritual Temple by Rev. Erwood. He says: "I will not ask you to promise to cherish, protect, obey this little girl, because where love is there are no obligations. It's not this ceremony that will unite you two, but love which each feels for the other is the bond of union. I will only ask you to be true to yourself to what is highest and best in your nature. Do you promise?"

How grand, how beautiful a thought expressed. If there were a few more men like Brother Erwood and Paul Hervieu we would all be able to find our heaven here. MRS. J. H. DALLAS.

Ideal, but Impractical.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In answer to your matrimonial queries, I will state that love might be made an obligation of matrimony, but it never could be made to work that way.

A pledge made to love their partners would be broken about as often as the ten commandments are now.

The law might demand a continuance of love as a condition of marriage, but it would soon be worse broken than the Russian Government is now.

The reason for that is because the Latin word for woman is mulier.

If that law could be enforced, millions of women would never marry, but it cannot be done, and women will continue to jump into the whirlpool of discontent the first time a silly, sap-headed, idiotical, hair-parted-in-the-middle dude asks her to accept him.

But few women marry for love in cities these days. They are either looking for money or a missing link to change their names to avoid the imaginary disgrace of being called old maids. Why, bless their vacillating hearts, they are the only true angels who never made men miserable by marrying them. We are all the architects of our own destiny, and can make for ourselves a bed of roses or a pallet of thorns.

SIC TRANSIT GLORIA MUNDI.

I SAW ---

A SIGN in front of the disappearing Lindell Hotel, "Wreckers Wanted." Clinton (Mo.) and Milwaukee (Wis.) papers please copy.

⁂

PRIVATE JOHN ALLEN at the Alps telling ghost stories; that is, I presume they were ghost stories for he reminded me of a ghost visiting the scenes of his triumphs.

⁂

A WELL dressed woman at Sixth and Olive streets ask of another woman: "Can you tell me on which street I can get a Cass avenue car?" And the woman snapped back: "Ask a policeman!"

⁂

A HORSE without much more sense than some men. He was being led by a rope tied to a buggy. The buggy horse shied and jerked and the rope broke; the led horse was free. He realized it and started to walk away. But he stepped on the end of the trailing rope and halted. He looked around in surprise and saw no one. He took another step, stepped on the rope again, and again halted. Still he could see no master. Forward once more—another step on the rope, and another halt. This time he gave it up and stood still in the street until the driver of the buggy got out, hitched, mounted him and rode away.

⁂

A WOMAN thrust her small son through a car window at Delmar to get him ahead of the crowd to hold a seat for her. The boy took his seat. A second later a man climbed through the same window and got into the same seat, evidently to save a place for his wife—who, like the other woman, could not climb through the window. The first woman, when she saw the man in the seat she had thought to save, berated him. His wife found a seat behind him; and the man listened to the woman's railings and abuse without a word. She claimed right and title to the seat from having "boosted" her son through the window; he did not dispute her claim, but kept his seat. And he maintained his silence while the woman, angry and abusive to the last, reached her corner and got off.

⁂

BOB HEDGES of the Browns make out a check. It was for no such ordinary thing as a baseball player's salary; it was for damages to a watch. The owner of the watch has a bank account that would interest Rockefeller, and an income that would make the owner of a summer garden scenic railway count himself as a day laborer; but when he went to the baseball game he took a 25-cent seat in the bleachers. And when a foul fly came and he tried to get the ball, the ball got him. It tapped him on the watch pocket, and the broken watch was the result. Hedges knows the man and when he presented his bill for the damaged watch, Hedges thought it such a good joke he was willing to pay for it. But that was before a Supreme Court decided that a man attended a baseball game at his own risk.

BILLIARDS

The Game as Sammy, the Office Boy, Saw It.

"I LEARNED a new game last night," said Sammy, the office boy. "It's billiards."

"Pooh, pooh!" said Eddie, the other office boy, that ain't a new game."

"Well, it was to me," said Sammy. "And it would be new to anybody who could see the Boss play it.

"The Boss asked me to along, because, he said, he wanted a kid to count for him. And the Boss' boss, and the head bookkeeper and the superintendent of the ladies' department, they went along too.

"Do you know the game? Well, you see, there's a big green table and three balls, and you hit one ball with the end of a dinky bat they call a cue, and if you hit it so it hits one of the other balls and bounces off so it hits the third ball, you get all chesty; and if you don't hit it that way the other fellows laugh and you thump the floor with your cue and say ——.

"But the Boss and his boss and the head bookkeeper and the manager of the ladies' department play it another way. First thing the Boss says to the ladies' man, 'You big stiff, what handicap you going to give me?' And the ladies' man he says, 'Why, you sawed off, I give you what you get, and you don't get many.' Then the Boss' boss, he pushes a button and when a man with an apron comes he says, 'What'll you amateurs have?' And the superintendent says, 'Bud for mine,' and the others, they say 'Me too,' and the man in the apron goes away. They shuck off their coats and pick out their cues; and then the ladies' man he tries to tell the head bookkeeper how he gave the head salesman 40 points and waxed him, and the superintendent won't listen, and that makes the ladies' man so mad he turns up his cuffs. The Boss and his boss try to tell each other about their fine shots, but they're both so busy talking they don't hear.

"And then they commence to shoot. I don't see much fun in the way they play; it looks to me like they are mostly trying to explain how they happen to miss, and they get all mixed up on it. Now and then somebody makes a point and then they take another drink. It's a good thing they don't soak something up every time they miss, 'cause they come late enough to the office as it is.

"Well, they played last night until the porter gets sleepy and the call boy—I guess that's what you call him—goes home, and then they say it's on the head bookkeeper and he goes up to the cashier and has fun telling him what a robber he is to charge such World's Fair prices.

"Then I ask the Boss, 'What was it you said you wanted me to do? Count up something, wasn't it?' And the ladies' man he butts in and says, 'Count your grandma! He don't need a clerk.'"

"But what did the Boss say?" asked Eddie.

"He said, 'Sammy, you may help me take my package home.' I don't know what he meant, but that's what he said.

FIGHTERS APPLY FOR JEFF'S TITLE

Proposed Presentation of Crown to Root or Hart Raises Protests.

BY ROBERT EDGREN.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 3.—When the original announcement was made by the Nevada fight promoters that Jeffries would present the world's heavyweight championship to the winner of this afternoon s fight between Jack Root and Marvin Hart, the retifed champion, it is said, received a number of communications from other would-be holders. The letters, of course, have not been given out, but it is believed that they run somewhat as follows:

Dear Misto Jeffries—Won't you please give me the heavy-weight championship? Please, dear Misto Jeffries, you know I have been wanting it for a long time. I think I ought to get it, 'cause I hit Misto Munroe on just the same spot where you hit him. Deed I did. Yours affectionately,
ARTHUR JACK JOHNSON.

Jim Jeffries—Hello! old man. I see you're graduating from the fighting game. Well, now, isn't that fine? I always knew you were too intelligent a man to stay in the ring all your life. You're cut out for big things. I expect to see you President before I get too old to vote. I'll vote for you, too. That's on the level. Good luck, old man, and I hope you make a million out of that oil well.

By the way, Jim, if you haven't any particular use for that old, worn-out title don't throw it away. Just hand it down to me. Of course, you're 'way up now, but I'm still down where it would be handy. This is no jolly, old pal. Always your strongest admirer,
JAMES J. CORBETT.

James J. Jeffries: Dear Sir—I hear you are going to present the heavyweight title to somebody. Don't overlook me. I need it in my collection. I'm middle and light heavyweight champion now, and I don't feel like going after the welterweight until I get back the heavy. If you like, I'll go out there and fight you for it. We can fight up in an alley or a barn. I don't care where it is so long as there is a $20,000 purse. In haste, ROBERT FITZSIMMONS.

Mr. J. J. Jeffries—I see where you are going to give the title to Hart. Now, Jim, Hart is a mighty nice feller, but he didn't knock me out in Philadelphia or in Louisville, and I don't see why he should have it when I've been waiting so long. I'll wait a while longer if you say so. Yours truly, GUS RUHLIN.

Dear Jeff—You ought to get me the championship title because I'm the only man that ever stayed the limit with you. If you give it to me I'll promise that I won't ever let a coon get it off me, because I'll put a padlock on it and hang it behind the bar. Please send by mail. Inclosed find 1-cent stamp. Yours,
THOMAS J. SHARKEY.

J. Jeffries, Cal.—Wire option on title to Klondike. Are there any mortgages on it? Will offer full market value, cash or real estate. JACK O'BRIEN.

Dear Jeff—What's the use of giving your title away? You don't need to give it to anybody. Just lend it to me for a while. I'll put it in a safe deposit vault where none of these heavies around here can swipe it while I'm wrestling. You can have it back whenever you want it. Respectfully,
JACK MUNROE.

HOT OFF THE BAT.

On the theory that "it's an ill wind that blows nobody good" the recent defeats of the Browns and Cardinals will have at least one good effect, since it will lead to the strengthening of both clubs. The Browns' management announced Sunday that Catcher Weaver had been released to the Indianapolis Club in exchange for Catcher Roth, the sturdy re[illegible] who formerly officiated behind the bat [illegible] Phillies, and that Catcher Edward [illegible] of the Waco (Tex.) Club had also [illegible]gned. The Cardinal management is [illegible]kering with several of the National [illegible]lubs for the exchange of Brain, and [illegible]bable that a new infielder will be [illegible]he Cardinal uniform shortly after [illegible]tes start on their Eastern trip. The [illegible] being made to strengthen the team [illegible] welcomed by the fans. Vastly more people are vitally interested in baseball this year than ever before locally, and they can be counted upon cordially to support winning baseball.

Manager Lajoie's absence from the games Sunday at Sportsman's Park was due to the fact that he twisted his ankle Friday in sliding to second at Cleveland. He persisted in playing on the sprained member Saturday and in consequence the affliction became aggravated and he was compelled to keep to his room, at the Southern Hotel all of Sunday. His nonappearance in the game was a huge disappointment to many of the fans. Manager Selee of the Cubs was also ailing and did not make the trip from Chicago with the Cubs.

Kahl made a superb catch of Koehler's apparent triple when he went up in the air over second and by a mighty lunge just did manage to get his hand on the hard drive. The little fellow fell to the ground, rolled over on his shoulder but came up right side with the ball clutched tightly in his hand.

Shannon's stickwork and fielding were the spectacular features of the first game of the Cardinals-Cubs' double-header. "Spike" drove out a single, a double and a triple off Ruelbach, scored two runs and had five putouts to his credit. His catch of Shulte's low line drive over third was the fielding feature of the game. "Spike," after a hard run, got the ball at his shoe tops, and sliding plowed furrows in the League Park pasture for a distance of several yards.

Jimmy Callahan, who has been benched by Manager-Captain Jones for failure to keep himself in condition during the playing season, is being sought after by the New York Highlanders, who are said to have offered Dougherty, Fultz and a cash consideration for Callahan. "Comiskey would not trade Callahan for the whole New York team," said Fielder Jones. "We are looking for good men, not trying to sell them. Callahan is one of the cleverest allround men in the profession, and the Chicago club will need his services in the race for the pennant."

CARDINALS REST AFTER DEFEATS

Depart for Chicago Tonight After Losing Two Games to the Cubs.

If the Cardinals are after the season's record for straight defeats, their efforts in Sunday's double-header with the Chicago Cubs should fill them with confidence of satisfying that ambition. Twice the locals bowed down to the Cubs, the first time by a score of 7 to 4 and the second time by the score of 2 to 0. Rain which had threatened all afternoon put a stop to the second contest in the fifth inning.

The home team rests today and departs tonight for Chicago, where they play Tuesday.

Ruehlbach, the young pitching phenom of Manager Selee, once more triumphed over Jack Taylor Sunday, though in this instance nine innings was plenty long enough to decide the game.

Taylor in the first game had about as much speed as the average messenger boy.

Chicago started the scoring in the second. Evers walked, Casey doubled. O'Neill and Ruehlbach singled and two runners crossed the pan. A triple by Schulte and a long outfield fly counted another in the fifth. In the sixth Evers walked again, Casey was safe on Burke's error. O'Neill sacrificed and Ruehlbach's wallop to left for a single scored Evers and Casey. The Cubs scored their final runs in the ninth. Ruehlbach walked. Slagle sacrificed, Maloney walked and Chance's single sent Ruehlbach over the pan. On a double steal, helped along by a poor throw of Zearfoss, Maloney scored with run number seven.

The Cardinals scored in the second on an error, Brain's single, Grady's out and Zearfoss' out. In the third Clarke beat out an infield tap and crossed the rubber on Shannon's terrific drive for a triple, "Spike" crossing the pan on Chance's poor throw. In the eighth the Cardinals made their last run. Shannon doubled to left, Arndt drove to center for a single and Smoot scored "Spike" with a single.

Briggs was the bright shining star of the second game, allowing the Cubs but one hit and striking out six men in five innings. Chicago scored in the initial inning. Slagel walked and Maloney advanced him to second on a tap in front of the plate. Chance drove to right and on Clarke's poor work in fielding the ball Slagel scored.

Tinker's base on balls started the run-getting in the second. Evers sacrificed to Burke, Tinker digging for third on the play. Grady saw an excellent chance to distinguish himself. Aiming accurately, he hurled the ball for the third sack. His aim was all right, for it went for the sack, but it passed it at a height that could be reached only by Knabenshue's airship, and Tinker scored.

St. Louis never had a chance to score, as Briggs had them "faded."

MOUND CITY CREW WINS HARLEM CUP

The first crew of the Mound City Rowing Club had little difficulty in capturing the Harlem Cup in the annual race of the local rowing clubs Sunday afternoon. The second crew of the Mound City was a good second, while the Western Rowing Club crew, the only other entry, came in about five lengths behind the second place shell. The race was over a mile and one-half course, downstream, starting at the foot of Carroll street.

The Century crew, which won the cup last year, failed to enter this year's contest owing to the fact that two of their members have been unable to train. The unofficial time of the race was 7m. 25s. The summary:

No. 1 Mound City Rowing Club crew—Frank Yaker, bow; Marvin Fromenac, No. 2; Fred Suerig, No. 3; Charles Amann, stroke, won.

Mound City crew No. 2—Joe Fromenac, bow; Mike Begley, No. 2; Emil Floerke, No. 3; J. Loesch, stroke, second.

Western Rowing Club crew—Schott, bow; Benzen, No. 2; Boerhe, No. 3; Woolf, stroke, third.

Officials—Otto Becker, George Esbacher and John L. Joachim, Judges; Louis Grosjean, Starter.

Monarchs Lose to Alton.

The Alton Blues defeated the Monarchs at Alton Sunday by a score of 3 to 1. A large crowd saw the game, the feature of which was the pitching of Walsh and the all around field work of the Blues. Batteries: Walsh and Carney; Cremon and [illegible]ldwish. The Blues play the Staunt[illegible] team at Alton the Fourth.

ROOT AND HART WILL MEET TODAY

Claimants for Championship Title Will Fight to Finish —Jeffries as Referee.

Marvin Hart and Jack Root will fight to a finish this afternoon at Reno, Nev. If Hart is "worth his salt" the finish will not be long delayed, provided Root is the same Root that was hooted out of the ring last Thanksgiving Day at Philadelphia. The promoters have been spreading broadcast the articles of agreement for the match, which set forth that the match "shall be recognized as a championship and the winner is to be declared the heavyweight champion of the world."

Sporting men who know say that "Old Bob" Fitzsimmons would have little trouble in disposing of both Root and Hart the same night, one after the other, or both at the same time.

Notwithstanding this, an amphitheater has been erected that will seat between 6000 and 6500 people. The fight will come off at 2 o'clock this afternoon. It is given out by the promoters that James J. Jeffries has accepted a check for $1000, in return for which he will act as referee of the match.

WAGNER NOW LEADS NATIONAL BATTERS

Hans Wagner of the Pittsburg Club did some great batting last week, and now holds the lead of the National League batsmen with a percentage of 366 made in 64 games. The "Flying Dutchman" made 14 hits in the last six games. Hall, now with the Brooklyn Club, is second, with 360 percentage, made in 13 games. Si Seymour, who was the leader a week ago, dropped from 359 to 345, and is third on the list. But Seymour still holds the record for long hits. He has made three home runs, seven triples and 20 doubles, a total of 49 extra bases. Wagner is close up with one homer, nine three-baggers and 17 doubles, a total of 38 extra bases.

In the American League the fight is close. Eddie McFarland, Ossie Shreckengost and Willie Keeler are having it nip and tuck, with Napoleon Lajoie a very close fourth, and coming fast. McFarland has 333 per cent, made in 35 games; Schreck 328, in 41 games, and Keeler 326, in 57 games. Then comes Larry, with 325 per cent, made in 58 games.

EXPECT CLOSE CONTESTS AT SCOTTISH CLANS MEET

The entire track team of the Missouri A. C. is entered in the athletics games of the Scottish Clans which will be held Tuesday, July 4, at Normandy Grove. Twenty events are on the program, though only seven are open to members of the A. A. U. A fine lot of prizes have been put up for the contests and some exciting sport is expected.

The list of events is as follows: One hundred yards run, handicap; 220-yard run, handicap; 440-yard run, handicap; 880-yard run, handicap; running high jump, handicap; running broad jump, handicap; putting 16-pound shot, handicap; 12-year-old Clansmen's sons' race; 14-year-old boys' race; 10-year-old girls' race; Clansmen's daughters' race, 14 years; Young ladies' race; Clansmen's daughters, all over 14 years; Married ladies' race; White Heather Circle Race; Clansmen's sons' race, under 18 years; Clansmen's race; quoiting, entry fee 25 cents; 18 yards, soft ends; tug of war, Clansmen only.

SECOND ROUND IN TENNIS TOURNEY TODAY

The second round of the State tennis tournament, which opened Saturday, will be played Monday afternoon on the Triple A courts. The first round in the doubles tourney also will be played. Games are scheduled to start at 2 o'clock. On account of the rain putting a stop to the play Saturday, several unfinished matches of the first round were played Sunday afternoon. Young Crunden won from Osthaus and Jones beat Vernon of Kansas City. Gauthier and Dr. Charles also played off their unfinished match, the former winning.

FOUND RUNAWAY IN CAVE.

Lad Who Would Be Cowboy, Brought Home.

Wallace Woods, the 15-year-old boy of 3007 Montgomery street, who left St. Louis a week ago for the Wild West to become a Texas cowboy, was brought home Sunday by his papa and mamma. They found him in a cave near Montesano, 20 miles down the river. He and his companions on the expedition were hungry and lonesome. They were glad to be found.

There were three boys in the original party. One of them trailed back to St. Louis Saturday. His hunger had conquered him first, not being satiated by the rations foraged after the collective $5 of the three was exhausted.

By this boy's direction the father and mother of young Woods found him Sunday. They bought the boys a square meal and brought them home.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The monthly report of the Chief of the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Agriculture will show the average condition of cotton June 25 to have been 77, as compared with 77.2 May 25, 1905; 88 on June 25, 1904; 77.1 at the corresponding date in 1903 and a 10-year average of 84.6.

Doctor Prevented Theft.

The police are searching for the man who is suspected by Dr. R. J. Terry of Washington University Medical School of having attempted to remove microscopes valued at $700 from the building at 1806 Locust street Saturday. Dr. Terry is recovering from injuries received in a battle with the intruder, in which the two men rolled down a flight of stairs. The man, who is said to be a former employe, escaped while Dr. Wayne Smith, an assistant professor, was summoning the police.

DEPART, BROWN TASTE IN MOUTH

Browns Go to Cleveland After Donating One Game to the Blues.

The Browns will not play at Sportsman's Park again until next Friday afternoon, when they begin a series with Cleveland that will probably include at least one double-header. The team left Monday for Detroit, where it will meet the Tigers for four games, two on Tuesday.

The third inning was the fatal one. Stovall and Bemis singled, but Moore fanned and so did Jackson. Howell then inveigled Bay into striking at three, the ball rolling through Weaver's legs to the press stand, while the populace sent up a groan. Flick then tapped to "Rock," who tried to hurry the toss to Wallace, with the result that he fumbled miserably, Stovall scoring. Kahl, who was subbing for Lajoie at second, then clouted to left for a single, scoring Bemis and Bay. The inning presented an incident the like of which has seldom been seen. Howell, after striking out three men and giving an easy chance for a fourth out at second, had the three runs scored on him that lost the game.

St. Louis scored its last run in the seventh. Koehler reached first on a fielder's choice. Wallace's tap to Joss advanced Harry to second, Gleason's walk and Sugden's single scoring him.

A heavy rainstorm began to fall shortly after the fifth inning had been started and the players were completely swamped in the heavy seas that swept across the diamond and lashed the outfield fences. Seeing that the players were helpless in the gale, Umpire Sheridan called "time" and, after waiting 30 minutes declared the game off. Sudhoff and Moore were the opposing pitchers. Moore passed Rockenfield and Stone in the third, but Rock was out stealing. Van Zant then singled to left and Koehler placed one in the same direction, Stone scoring, Van Zant also counting on Jackson's low throw to the plate.

Cleveland tied the score in the fourth. Kahl singled through Rock. Bradley clouted for a base to left. Kahl scored on Wallace's fumble of Turner's grounder. Stovall's scratch hit scored Bradley.

OLD PEOPLE
Their Pains and Ailments

Any taint of the blood quickly shows itself with old people, and troubles, which a younger, more vigorous constitution holds in check, take possession of those of advanced years. A mole, wart or pimple often begins to inflame and fester, terminating in a sore that refuses to heal. Wandering pains of a rheumatic character are almost constant, the joints get stiff and the muscles sore, while sleeplessness and nervousness make life a burden. The natural activity of the body is not so great in old age and all the organs get dull and sluggish, failing to carry out the waste matters and poisons accumulating in the system and they are taken up and absorbed by the blood, rendering it weak and unable to properly nourish the system. There is no reason why old age should not be as healthy as youth if the blood is kept pure and strong. S. S. S. is purely vegetable and is the safest and best blood purifier and tonic for old people, because it is gentle, but at the same time thorough in its action purifying the blood of all poisons and foreign matter, strengthening it and toning up the entire system by its fine tonic effect. Almost from the first dose the appetite increases, the general health begins to improve and the pains and ailments pass away.

I had a severe attack of La Grippe, which left me almost a physical wreck. To add to my wretched condition, Rheumatism developed. In a short time after beginning S. S. S. I was relieved of the pains and have gained in flesh and strength and my general health is better than for years. I heartily recommend S. S. S. for all blood diseases.

CHARGES THEFT AT CHURCH SERVICES

Aged Pastor's Son Under Arrest on Complaint of Choir Singers at Kansas City.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 3.—Alonzo Scott, 13-year-old son of Rev. A. H. Scott, a retired Baptist minister living here, was arrested yesterday afternoon in the Christian Church charged with stealing diamond rings valued at $75 and $5 in money from the pastor's study at the church yesterday while the choir was practicing.

The boy went to Sunday school with his sister. After school a number of young women remained for choir practice, leaving their hats and pocketbooks in the pastor's study while they were singing. When they started home it was found that three of the pockbooks had been robbed. Miss Helen Detrich had left a chatelaine containing diamond rings and a small amount of money in the room. Her rings and money were gone.

Young Scott is on parole from the Juvenile Court. The Rev. Dr. Scott is 80 years old and is of the old school of Baptist preachers.

Uneventful.

"Let's see! Wasn't there some trouble at a church social out in your neighborhood recently?" inquired the able editor of the Polkville (Ark.) Clarion.

"Nope!" returned Mr. Tut Springer, a citizen of the 'Possum Trot bailiwick, who had percolated into the sanctum. "No trouble a-tall. Deacon Peddicord tromped on the Rev. Jim Jonks' toe in the midst of a game of 'Spin the Plate,' and the preacher licked him for it till he couldn't hardly gap. That was all."

2000 ARRESTED IN PHILADELPHIA RAID

PHILADELPHIA, July 3.—Two thousand persons have been arrested in a police raid of the Philadelphia dives, undertaken at the orders of Mayor Weaver as a blow, it is said, at the overthrown Republican city machine, under whose protection the places were being conducted.

The frequenters of the district raided seem to have had absolutely no warning of the campaign. Four hundred police were employed. One hundred and fifty establishments were raided, with the confiscation of 300 quarts of champagne, hundreds of cases of beer and liquors, thousands of boxes of cigars and many poker, roulette and other gambling layouts.

The visitors captured put up fines aggregating $5000, while the proprietors and inmates furnished bail to a total of $100,000.

FAMILY WRAPPED IN FURS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 3.—When Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hausmann and their five children came off the steamship Bluecher two deputy surveyors, Messrs. Coneys and Norwood, noticed that two of the daughters, about 12 and 14 years old, appeared abnormally plump. Their father also appeared stout in spots. Mr. Hausmann announced that he was a furrier from Cleveland. A woman inspector was summoned. The girls were found to be stuffed under their skirts with mink skins. Around their legs they wore muffs of mink. Mr. Hausmann was padded with mink skins.

In one of the trunks were suits of wearing apparel, within which had been sewn sets of furs. The value of the goods, which had not been declared, was $500. The furs were all confiscated.

FEAR OF RIVERS AT KANSAS CITY

Rapid Swelling of Missouri and Kaw Is Threatening Inundation of Levee Sections.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 3.—Rapid rising of the Missouri and Kaw Rivers, with reports of swelling waters coming down both streams, especially reports of heavy rainfall over the Kaw watershed, is causing grave apprehension of trouble from high water here.

At the present rate of rise the Missouri will go over the danger point in two days. It is now 18 feet and 21 is the limit, after which trouble begins.

There was a terrific rainfall here and over Eastern Kansas last night and its effect is beginning to be apparent.

From one to three inches is the report of the amount of rainfall in the last 24 hours. That is enough to send the rivers over the danger line, it is believed.

Squatters in the very low parts of town along the levees are making ready to get out and warehouse men are preparing to move goods at a moment's notice.

The Kaw River this morning was rising at the rate of an inch an hour and the Missouri at three-quarters of an inch. Assistant Waather Forecaster Anderson says that the rise will continue

Making It Worse.

From Punch.

Tomkins (whom she has consistently and mercilessly snubbed, and who has long nourished a desire for revenge): Ah, how d' you do, Miss Ackridd? I have heard the news. I'm sure I heartily wish your fiance joy.

Miss A. (sourly): Indeed! I fear you have been misinformed, Mr. Tomkins. I have no fiance.

Tomkins (lifting his hat and beating a hasty retreat): Yes—er—quite so. I—I congratulate him.

PLENIPOTENTIARIES FINALLY SELECTED

Both Japan and Russia Send President Roosevelt Names of Their Peacemakers.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., July 3.—Both Japan and Russia have sent the formal notice to President Roosevelt of their selection of peace plenipotentiaries to meet at Washington early next month.

The ranking Russian diplomat will be M. Muravieff, former Minister of Justice and now Ambassador to Rome. His colleague will be Baron Rosen, the new Ambassador to the United States. Baron Komura, Minister of Foreign Affairs, will head the Japanese delegation and will be assisted by Minister Takahira, present Japanese representative to Washington.

Both commissions have been intrusted with full power to negotiate and conclude a treaty of peace, subject to ratifications of their home governments.

Information Expected.

"Now that the census men are really at it," remarked the Observer of Events and Things, "I suppose we will soon know how old Ann really is."

ROB STORE UNDER EYES OF POLICE

Burglars Operate in Twelfth Street Opposite Kiely and Desmond's Dens.

Da… burglars operated Sunday across the street from the official dens of … astute Kiely and the shrewd Desm… and all their astute and shrewd a…tants.

The scene of the operations was across Twelfth street from the Four Courts, at the wagon shop of Henry Buchenau. The bold intruders climbed by a ladder to the one-story roof, which is in full view from the office of Chief of Detectives Desmond, walked halfway across the roof to a skylight, through it entered the interior of the store, which is in full view from the Central District Police Station, and began their operations.

They took $50 worth of tools and then went to the office, forced open a desk and took $4 in stamps and some change. When they had all they wanted they forced open the back door and walked away. The police and detectives heard of it when Buchenau reported it Monday.

Sunday's Sudden Storm Spoiled Frocks and Hats of Hosts of Merrymakers

The Rain Came Suddenly and Its Preparations Had Not Seemed Sincere—Patrons of Parks and Baseball Games Were Drenched.

The people of St. Louis refused Sunday to take the storm seriously until it was too late; hence these chroniclings of incidents:

At Tower Grove Park, where Weil's band was giving its Sunday afternoon concert, 4000 music lovers were sitting in the grove. About 1000 of them had umbrellas and confidence; the others had confidence only.

The band, after dallying with the classics, played something about "Shine on, Sweet Moon," and just as the bass drummer was getting busy about it, there came a crack of lightning and a peal of thunder that put his music all to the bad.

This put the people to looking at the clouds, and about one-third of them started for shelter. The other two-thirds behaved as did Noah's neighbors just before the big flood, and refused to believe there was to be any rain.

The band finished the sweet moon number, and then began a rest between parts of the program. As they settled themselves for the rest the rain and wind began. The wise ones with the umbrellas were not afraid; they sat contentedly—and were soon soaked. The improvident ones scurried for the greenhouses and bandstand, where they huddled and sweltered until the storm passed.

All but several small boys on ponies. They could not take their ponies into the greenhouses, and would not desert them. So ponies and riders scampered through the park, defiant of the rain.

Fans Were Too Slow.

At the baseball parks it was the same. People looked at the approaching clouds, but few were wise enough to start away at once. They waited—and a large part of them got wet.

When the storm broke the bleacherites made for underneath, and grandstand occupants rushed for the back of the stands. Women with fragile hats raised umbrellas, which did no good. One fond papa who had a small boy in a box caught the youngster around the neck, so that he swung like a pendulum, and climbed over the backs of the seats.

A small boy at Sportsman's Park had the worst luck. He started across the field and stepped on first base. The bag was in the middle of a pond of soft mud and so was the small boy the instand he stepped on the bag. He went down flat. It was better than one of Rockenfield's slides.

At the various golf links scores of players were caught. At Triple A grounds half a dozen players were far from the clubhouse. They became soaked the first minute of the rainfall, and, deciding they could not become more soaked, continued their game. They said it was fun; the only trouble was they could not make long drives because the falling rain made it impossible for them to follow the course of the ball.

BOY LOSES EYE, BOTTLE EXPLODES

Lad Filled It With Powder and Sand and Didn't Get Away in Time.

Experimenting with the powder that is always plentiful about Fourth of July time has cost John Ellis, aged 14, of 19 North Fifteenth street, his right eye, and it is feared will cost him his life.

The boy, with some companions, put a half pound of powder in a soda bottle and filled the remainder of the bottle with sand. They attached a fuse one foot long to the bottle and the Ellis boy volunteered to light it.

He did not get away in time. The bottle was blown to pieces, tearing out his eye and lacerating his face and hands. He was unconscious when picked up and carried home.

Willie Dahl, aged 12, 321 North Ninth street, playing with a toy pistol, suffered severe injury to his right hand when it exploded.

BOY AND GIRL INJURED BY BLANK CARTRIDGE.

The deadly blank cartridge gun, that can't hurt anybody because it only shoots blanks, is responsible for injuries that will compel Morris Hirshfeld, aged 12, and his baby sister, Lillie, 816 Morgan street, to see the Fourth of July celebration through bandaged eyes.

As the boy sat on the steps at 815 Morgan street Sunday night, Joseph Bazzaza, aged 10, 817 Morgan street, came along with the gun.

When he had said, "Throw up your hands," and the others had obeyed his instructions, he placed the gun near enough to their faces to burn them badly upon the snapping of the trigger. The burns, while not serious, were very painful, especially those of the 4-year-old girl.

Bazzaza was arrested and taken to the Carr Street Police Station. He will be tried in the Juvenile Court on the charge of disturbing the peace.

Eva Blank, aged 8, of 2351 Menard street, was struck below the left eye by an air gun bullet, which was aimed at a rat in the alley by Willie Eyerman, aged 11, of 2342 South Eleventh street. The bullet passed through a crack in the fence and hit the little girl as she was passing through the alley.

A cat rifle may cause permanent stiffness to the knee of John Clark, aged 19, of 1807 Elliot avenue. William A. Meier, aged 43, of 1022 Benton street, Sherman Windman, aged 26, and Emil Winkle, aged 18, both of 1812 North Leffingwell avenue, were arrested. They denied having seen Clark in the alley where he was shot.

FIREMAN IN A FIGHT.

Said He Got Pistol to Defend Himself—No Warrant.

A warrant was applied for Monday charging Frank Van Kilberg of 3505 Evans avenue, a city fireman, with attempt to use a pistol in a saloon fight at Grand avenue and Kossuth street Sunday, but Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Dalton refused to issue the warrant, advising that the case be taken to a Police Court.

Van Kilberg is said to have got into the fight because the wife of a cousin of his was spoken of in a slanderous manner. He claims that this cousin, who was with him, was badly beaten up in the fight, and that he retreated to their buggy, which was waiting outside, and secured a pistol with which to defend himself. He denied, however, that he had drawn a pistol in the saloon or threatened any one with a weapon.

GREETED WITH CHARIVARI.

Utz Wanted Housekeeper, but Took Bride Instead.

The marriage of Mrs. Nellie Corbett of 1020 North Thirteenth street to John V. Utz of Belleville has just become known in St. Louis, though it was known to a large number in Belleville and the couple were the victims of a hearty charivari.

Mr. Utz, who is the proprietor of two restaurants in the Illinois city, wanted a housekeeper, and, when a mutual friend spoke to Mrs. Corbett and she applied for the position, Mr. Utz suggested that she preside over the house as his wife. They had known each other for ten years and without much hesitancy she accepted.

CASHIER'S ILLNESS HAS BECOME ACUTE

Casey's Physician Will Allow No One to See Sick Man Except His Wife.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CLINTON, Mo., July 3.—"Mr. Casey is suffering from an acute attack of nervous prostration," said Dr. John H. Britts, who is the family physician, and in attendance on the stricken cashier of the wrecked Salmon Bank.

"His condition is more serious now than at any time since his illness," continued the doctor. "He has not made the improvement which I had hoped for. His condition is not at all favorable."

Casey's friends agree with the doctor and among them but little hope is entertained for his recovery. In fact, a turn for the worst is feared may come at any time.

The cashier's house is guarded by two deputy sheriffs, one of whom stands guard at the door of his room all the time, while the other is stationed outside the house.

Casey has as yet made no statement of the condition of the bank, the causes of the failure or concerning the assets. No word has he given to the public except what he has said to Bank Examiner Cook and was by the latter made public.

Receiver Egger is very anxious to have an explanation of the bank's affairs from the cashier, but Dr. Britts refuses to allow him to be seen.

The receiver and his assistants today began making an inventory of the bank's assets. They expect to complete the work in a week.

GIRL HIDDEN IN TRUNK.

Policemen Arrest Keeper of the House Where Runaway Was Secreted.

A warrant was issued Monday charging Madge Milton of Chestnut street with harboring Adele Seifried, 15 years old, of 3234 California avenue, who ran away from home about a week ago.

The police were notified by the girl's stepmother and they learned that a girl answering the description had been seen at the Milton place. Policemen Kohrs, Bollmer and Cantillian went there and were told by Madge Milton that the girl was not in her house. The policemen then searched the place thoroughly, but found no girl answering the description of the one sought.

Just as they were about to leave one of the poliemen noticed a trunk in an upstairs room which looked as if it had been moved out hurriedly from the wall. He lifted one end of the trunk and found it very heavy. Then he asked asked Madge Milton to unlock the trunk, and, upon her refusing, pried the trunk open. Adele Seifried was found huddled up inside.

The Milton woman was arrested and the girl sent to the detention room at Four Courts, from where she will go to House of Good Shepherd.

KEEP HORSES IN FOURTH.

"We will not call for or deliver horses July 4."

This sign posted in many livery stables about the city indicates the attitude of the liverymen toward the national independence day as it is now celebrated.

"We do not care to take the chance of having our boys loose in the streets where fireworks are being exploded," said a liveryman. "A telephone call comes in from Dr. Jones. 'Send my rig to me at 4114 Umpteenth street.' We send the boy and the rig. After awhile comes another call:

"'Send an ambulance to the corner of Sarah and Pine. One of your horses ran away and we've got the boy here.'

"No, it's too dangerous to trust our boys out with the horses on the Fourth and we don't do it."

THIS MAN WANTS HEART CUT OUT

Queer Provision in Will of a German Suicide at Hollister, Cal.

HOLLISTER, Cal., July 3.—Gustav A. Kihn, a native of Hamburg, Germany, has committed suicide here by taking morphine. He left a will in which he directed that his heart should be cut out and placed in his coffin outside his body. The doctor performing the service is to receive $50. He asked that no one should see him after death and that no mourners should follow him to the grave.

SAYS INSANITY FOLLOWS

Kansas Charity Board Member Comments on Derangements After Religious Revivals.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TOPEKA, Kan., July 3.—An investigation by the State Board of Control of charitable institutions during the last week shows that the counties in which lengthy religious revivals have been held during the last year have the high records for the number of insane persons sent to the State asylums.

"Insanity," said H. C. Bowman, a member of the board, "seems to have followed the religious revivals like an epidemic. In Reno County, where there was a protracted revival early last year, has sent 52 insane persons to the State Asylum in Topeka during the year. I find that this epidemic of insanity has also followed the revivals which were held in Topeka, Arkansas City, Winfield, Wichita and other places. Our asylums will be overcrowded if this epidemic is not checked."

WIFE FAINTS AT TRIAL.

While her husband, Frank Bielicksky, 2228 Division street, was on trial before Judge Pollard of Dayton Street Police Court Monday for abusing her, Mrs. Mary Bielicksky fainted twice. She was taken home in an ambulance and the court fined the husband $20 and costs.

It was charged that he had beaten her frequently.

PATRIOTISM COST $5.

Chinaman Fined $5 for Shooting Off Firecrackers Sunday.

Fay Chang's American patriotism received a rude jolt when he was fined $5 in City Hall Police Court Monday for shooting off a bunch of fireworks Sunday.

Fay Chang lives at 717 Walnut street. There he shot the firecrackers Sunday afternoon, and there two patrolmen arrested him.

He was accompanied into court by an interpreter.

"Ask him why he shot the firecrackers," said Judge Tracy to the interpreter.

There was a conversation that sounded like more fireworks, and then the interpreter said:

"He says he cannot wait until Fourth July come."

"Tell him I'm sorry," said the court. "His patriotism does him credit, but he was 48 hours too soon. Five dollars."

C. J. Helfenstein's Funeral.

The funeral of Charles J. Helfenstein of 3533 Pestalozzi street, who died Sunday of heart affection, was held Monday from the family residence to the Bellefontaine Cemetery. Rev. Dr. W. W. Newell, pastor of the Compton Hill Congregational Church, officiated. Mr. Helfenstein was 76 years of age and was one of the few survivors of the railroad disaster at Gasconade River, in which many lives were lost, almost fifty years ago. Mr. Helfenstein's wife and his five children have preceded him to the grave.

MISS SMALLEY TO WORK FOR NEGRO

Granddaughter of Wendell Phillips' Stenographer for Collector of Revenue.

NEW YORK, June 3.—Miss Ida Smalley, daughter of George W. Smalley, the author and correspondent of the London Times, and granddaughter by adoption of Wendell Phillips, the abolitionist, has taken the position as official stenographer in the office of Collector of Internal Revenue.

Charles W. Anderson, leader of New York Republican organization of negroes, and himself a negro, took charge of the office as Collector by appointment of President Roosevelt last week.

Miss Smalley's work will be done under his direction.
